Quick Farm Bill Action Predicted

Modifies Parts Ike Disliked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Quick settlement of Senate-House differences over the latest draft of an election year farm bill was forecast by some House leaders Saturday.

Although sharp differences of opinion still existed, they did not appear to defy compromise in time to get a bill to President Eisenhower next week.

There was even a chance the House would accept a bill passed by the Senate last night without further wrangling.

The Senate version, passed after two days of debate, won qualified support Saturday from Secretary of Agriculture Benson.

Benson commented that "a quick check of the bill indicates that, overall, it has been much improved from the standpoint of the Department of Agriculture."

The Senate measure modifies some features of the House-passed bill distasteful to the administration, and gives the President his $1,200,000,000 soil bank program for paying farmers to take surplus crop land out of production.

Neither Senate nor House version authorizes advance soil bank payments this year on next year's land withdrawals. Eisenhower asked for this authority when he vetoed a more extensive farm measure last month.

In advance of compromise efforts, Rep. Cooley (D-NC) said in a statement he hoped the new bill will go to the President before the end of next week and that he "can see fit to sign it."

660-Mile Highway Without Traffic Light

EDGELY, Pa. (AP) — On Friday, Mr. Motorist can enter the Ohio Turnpike at the Indiana border and drive continuously for 660 miles to New York City without being stopped by a single traffic light.

This is the longest unbroken stretch of super toll roads in the nation, and just the beginning of a growing transcontinental system of express highways.

On Friday the last link of the 660-mile chain of roads that stretches through Ohio, Pennsylvania and New Jersey will be opened to motor traffic when the Delaware River Turnpike Bridge is dedicated.

The massive 20,000-ton steel span arches across the Delaware between Edgely and Florence township, N.J., to connect the heavily traveled Pennsylvania and New Jersey turnpikes.

A mile and a quarter long, the big bridge will handle six lanes of traffic and will eliminate the bottleneck that developed around Philadelphia, where the two big turnpikes terminated on the shores of the Delaware.

Engineers estimate that the towering bridge—its center span is 682 feet—will save roughly an hour's driving time by bypassing the crowded streets in America's third largest city.

The 25 million dollar bridge completes the final portion of the 32.3-mile Delaware River extension of the Pennsylvania Turnpike and a nine-mile stretch of the New Jersey toll road. The cost of connecting the two superhighways totaled nearly 98 million dollars.

With the bridge's opening it will be possible for a motorist leaving Augusta, Maine—at almost the extreme northeastern portion of the United States—to have almost clear driving, with the minimum of traffic interruptions, on toll roads and free expressways.

Only the Henry Hudson Parkway in New York state is free, but on the other roads the motorists pays approximately a penny a mile—roughly $7 for the 660-mile trip from New York City to the Indiana border. Engineers consider that an insignificant price to pay in lieu of the hours of driving time saved, plus the saving in gasoline and the wear and tear on vehicles and drivers.

There are about 18,500,000 home gardens in the United States today.

Nation Views Newest In War Instruments

WASHINGTON (AP)—The newest in airplanes, guided missiles and other instruments of war were shown throughout the nation Saturday in what Secretary of Defense Wilson called an "exhibition of power for peace."

Military posts, bases and stations welcomed hundreds of thousands of citizens for the Armed Forces Day displays. More than 80,000 visitors were counted at nearby Bolling Air Force Base alone, where the Air Force staged a demonstration of jet fighters and bombers.

The Army's Redstone medium-range ballistic missile was shown at Selfridge Air Force Base in Michigan, and citizens in many areas got their first chance to see the Nike antiaircraft missiles set up to protect a number of major cities from enemy air attack.

The Corporal and Honest John missiles also were shown in some displays.

An important part of the celebration was concentrated in Washington, where it started with a prayer for peace and closed with the noise and smoke of a simulated atomic bomb explosion.

Children screamed and their parents jumped when six of the newest Air Force fighters swooped down over Bolling AFB. Within a few hundred feet of the crowd, they broke through the sound barrier with shattering reports.

Couple Complete 8,000-Mile Trip In Two Years

ST. LOUIS (AP) — An 8,000-mile voyage that began nearly two years ago at Seattle, Wash., was finished Friday when the Bobcat, a 50-foot auxiliary ketch, sailed into St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Cammon of suburban Rock Hill made the voyage in three stages, Cammon taking time out to return here periodically for his job as a field engineer for General Electric Corp.

Cammon built the ketch himself on Anderson Island in Puget Sound near Seattle. They set sail in July 1954 and reached the Panama Canal in October of that year. The trip was resumed a year ago and they reached Cairo, Ill., last July before Cammon had to take more time off for work.

Cammon figures it will take him two years of weekends to overhaul the ketch, which has a 40 h.p. auxiliary engine. Then he plans another trip—down the Mississippi to Cuba, with a stop in Florida.

Studies Indicate Shift In Foreign Aid Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A revolutionary shift in United States foreign aid policy is foreshadowed by studies now being made in key agencies of the Eisenhower administration under prodding from the White House.

The switch, if carried through as now indicated, will mean a reduction in the military forces of some allied countries, particularly on the frontiers of the free world in Asia.

Officials say their thinking tentatively indicates such reductions would be justified on two grounds:

First, the real security of all free world countries in the atomic age rests mostly on the protection of the United States nuclear striking power.

Second, the dangers of even small wars have been diminished by Russia's new policy of presenting a more friendly face to the non-Communist world.

The impulse behind the new look at foreign aid policy lies in large part, however, in the field of cost. There is evidence that Congress and the country are becoming increasingly reluctant to vote the funds necessary to do the job the administration thinks necessary. The program now before Congress had a rough time this week at the hands of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the administration is being compelled to retreat from some of its positions.

For example, President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have laid heavy emphasis on a need for new authority this year to commit the United States to long term foreign aid spending on specific projects. The House committee knocked out that provision and substituted a general statement of intent to carry on foreign aid which gives no real new power to the President. The administration has decided, this reporter was informed, not to make a further fight for the long-range provision in the House.

The problem of costs is simply defined. Eisenhower has stated that foreign aid spending should continue at about the same level—between four and five billion dollars—for a good many years. At the same time his principal advisors on cold war strategy are generally agreed that the United States must spend considerably more in the next few years than it has in the last six on economic assistance, especially to Asian countries.

The only place from which new economic funds can come, in the light of the President's fixed policies, is the military aid appropriations. Thus some of the best informed authorities look for cuts in some allied military forces. Where, when and how such reductions may be brought about are problems that await further debate in the State and Defense Departments and a decision by President Eisenhower and Congress.

The example most often cited is South Korea. That republic has an army of 21 divisions, or about 600,000 men, plus naval and air force units and a reserve force of 10 divisions. The economy of the country is wholly unable to support such a military establishment.

Crewman Drowns Trying To Get Aid For Stalled Boat

CHICAGO (AP) — A crewman drowned early Saturday in a futile effort to swim to shore and summon aid to a stalled excursion boat carrying 34 students, a professor and two clergymen on a Lake Michigan sight-seeing cruise.

The passengers were rescued unharmed by coast guardsmen an hour and a half later.

The victim, Lance L. Shanahan, 27, of Miami, Fla., swam 100 feet to shore in early morning blackness. But at that point he swam against a high sea wall he apparently had failed to see.

He shouted for help and Capt. Joseph Andreu, 35, skiper of the 65-foot boat, the "Streamliner" plunged into the icy waters with two lifejackets. Shanahan went under before Andreu could reach him. Andreu was treated at a hospital for exposure.

The boat had made a trip along Lake Michigan lakefront and was returning when the motor failed in Burnham Harbor. The boat was tied to another craft which was moored in the harbor and Andreu tried to attract attention of lakefront fishermen with his flashlight.

Shanahan, who took a job with Wendella Yacht Excursions, owners of the new boat, only Friday announced he would swim to shore for help, Andreu said.

Shanahan's body was recovered several hours later.

Most of the passengers were students at Bradley-Bourbonnais Community High School of Kankakee High School. All were members of the College Church of the Nazarene in Bourbonnais, Ill.

They were chaperoned on the cruise by the Rev. L. G. Nees, pastor of the church; his assistant, the Rev. Wesley Bentley, and Robert Lunsford, professor at Olivet Nazarene College, Kankakee.

FIVE DIE IN CRASH, FIRE OF LIGHT PLANE

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Five employes of a Waterloo trucking firm died here Friday evening in the burning wreckage of a light plane in which they had gone for a ride after work.

The plane crashed near the Waterloo Municipal Airport and the bodies were so badly burned that several hours passed before authorities could identify any of the victims.

The plane, a twin-engine Cessna, fell on a farm about three miles north of the airport a few minutes after it had taken off.

One of the dead was Arthur Louis Bauman, 38, shop superintendent for the McCoy Trucking Co. He and two Waterloo businessmen owned the plane. Bauman apparently was at the controls.

The other victims were identified as:

Lauren Ange, 35; Hugo Miller, 56, and Henry Buenneke, 50, all of Waterloo, and Harold Lester, 27, of Dickeyville, Wis. They were employes of the trucking firm.

Warn, New Leaders Of Soviet Greater Menace Than Stalin

WASHINGTON (AP) — A symposium released by the House Committee on Un-American Activities Saturday warns that the new Soviet campaign of anti-Stalinism presents a menace to the free world greater than Stalinism itself.

The new Russian leaders, who have denounced the dead dictator, were described as still pursuing his goal of world domination but by subtler methods — seeking to lull, divide and undermine the free nations.

The committee asked 39 educators, writers, veterans' organization leaders, labor union heads, ex-Communists and others to write their views on anti-Stalinism and the recent 20th Congress of the Soviet Communist party.

The views were published in the symposium which the committee entitled "The Great Pretense."

In a summation at the end of the booklet, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said:

"When the Communist smirk begins to change to a smile, as is the case right now, we would be well advised to refocus our sights. Behind those changing spots, the same bad blood still flows through the leopard's veins."

Hoover said the "defrocking" of Stalin has brought repercussions in Communist circles over the world and in the United States "confusion and disillusionment have developed in the Communist party."

He added, though, "there is no danger that the umbiblical cord will be severed. The party in America still is a dedicated child, completely dependent upon the proud parent in Moscow."

Hoover repeated his warning that Communists in America are trying to work through front organizations.

In a foreword, Rep. Walter (D-Pa), chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, said the Stalin purge is all the more dangerous because of the confusion and deception which it engenders.

The committee said the writers of the symposium stood together on three major conclusions:

1. The current policy and tactics of the Soviet Union present the greatest danger ever to confront the West.

2. The developments in the Soviet Union are a reflection of growing strength and confidence rather than weakness.

3. The policy of anti-Stalinism does not denote any abandonment of the messianic Soviet program of universal conquest.

Stevenson Leads Kefauver In Pledged Votes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai Stevenson now leads Sen. Estes Kefauver 148½ to 127 in pledged and publicly commited delegate votes for the Democratic presidential nomination.

That is the lineup in The Associated Press tabulation of primary and state convention results after Stevenson's victory over the Tennessee senator for Oregon's 16 convention votes.

There are 86 national convention votes spread among 10 others and 278½ are uncommitted.

Delegates with 640 votes have now been selected for a convention which will have 1,372 votes. A majority of 686½ will be required for a nomination.

On the Republican side, President Eisenhower has already been assured of enough delegates for a second nomination. Exclusive of 23 delegates being chosen today in Georgia and 12 more in Nevada, the Republicans had picked 761 of their 1,323 delegates, with 662 needed for a majority.

Stevenson's biggest pick-up in delegate strength this week was in a North Carolina convention where a partial poll showed him favored by delegates with 20½ votes in a 36-vote delegation.

Three French Orphans Outfitted For Home In U.S.

NANCY, France (AP)—Three little French girls, orphaned sisters, today were being outfitted and readied for a transAtlantic flight to a new home and foster parents in St. Louis, Mo.

The girls, Claudine-Lorraine, 7, Monique-France, 5, and Nancy-Alice, 3, are being adopted by Mr. and Mrs. John MacGuire, through the intervention of Lt. Col. Everett K. Spees, commander of the U. S. airbase at nearby Toul-Rosieres, and Mrs. Spees.

MacGuire and his wife asked Spees to find some children for them to adopt after their son, Sgt. John MacGuire Jr., was killed in a motor car accident five years ago while serving under Spees.

MacGuire works for a railroad in St. Louis.

French Farmers Demonstrate For Government Aid

PARIS (AP) — A farmers' army mounted on tractors Saturday blocked the highways of France in an angry demonstration for more government aid. Millions of weekend motorists got caught in the nationwide traffic jam.

Slogan-shouting farmers threw up thousands of roadblocks faster than sweating police could pull them down.

All day long, convoys of tractors and other mobile farm machinery rumbled on to the highways, tying up traffic while farm men and women handed out protest leaflets to trapped motorists.

The Ministry of Interior ordered out police reserves as traffic became chaotic in about 60 of France's departments (counties). Helicopters and light planes directed police squads to points where thousands of cars were piled up behind tree trunk barricades or tractors drawn up across the way.

Police made a score of arrests, but most of the farmers were released after a few hours of detention.

Leaflets distributed by the demonstrators called upon the government to give more help to farmers who lost the biggest part of their crops in last February's disastrous freeze. They said the farm federations had ordered "Operation Roadblock" only after the government failed to meet their demands for help.

JAMES ROOSEVELT TO MARRY OFFICE CLERK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources said Saturday Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif) intends to marry Gladys Irene Owens, a part-time clerk in his congressional office, in June.

Roosevelt, in Los Angeles for two House subcommittee hearings, declined to comment.

His divorce from Romelle Roosevelt becomes final next month, Roosevelt said, adding:

"But I never comment on my personal affairs."

Move To Halt Feud In Armed Services

SOMETHING TO AIM AT—Here's the Navy's newest all-metal target plane, the XKDB-1, developed by Beech Aircraft in Wichita, Kan. The drone is capable of out-of-sight remote control for surface-to-air and air-to-air target practice by fighter planes and guided missiles.

Wilson Hints At Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — A double crackdown was threatened Saturday to halt a public feud among the U. S. armed services — a great dispute over how the nation should prepare to defend itself in the nuclear age.

After unnamed sources, evidently within the Army, passed documents to newsmen charging that present emphasis on air power could lead only to "national disaster," there were these quick developments:

1. Secretary of Defense Wilson called the public policy row "a most unfortunate business" and said he would look into it personally. Hinting at possible action, he said the armed forces "don't have to practice psychological warfare on each other."

2. Sen. Chavez (D-NM), chairman of a Senate Defense Appropriations Committee, warned that Congress might cut the funds of the armed forces unless "petty jealousies" are done away with. "They ought to quit being prima donnas and work for our common purpose, the defense of our country," he said.

Although the Army-Air Force differences are the latest to boil over, there are hot disputes also between the Navy and Air Force. Recently the Air Force declared the Navy's big carriers could deliver only a "small" strategic punch. The Navy, backed by President Eisenhower and Secretary Wilson, has pictured its aerial might as tremendous.

Sharply worded staff studies circulating in the Pentagon were quoted Saturday in several newspapers, including the New York Times, New York Herald-Tribune and St. Paul Pioneer Press. Some represent the views of individual staff officers, some the settled official opinion of an armed service.

Stevenson Bests Kefauver In Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Adlai Stevenson bested Sen. Estes Kefauver Saturday in early complete returns on Oregon's Democratic write-in for the party's presidential nomination.

The strictly partisan primary Friday gave President Eisenhower a warm Republican ovation, turned up an unexpectedly heavy GOP write-in for Vice President Nixon as his running mate, and pitted Democratic Sen. Wayne Morse against former Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay for the Senate in November.

Stevenson was capturing the bulk of the 36 counties with 59 per cent of the write-in. He forged ahead of Kefauver by 16,000 votes with unofficial results in from 80 per cent of the precincts. He was running 9-6 in Portland's populous Multnomah County. The Tennessee senator at no time held the lead.

Neither Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic nominee, nor his chief rival appeared on the Democratic ballot. Both entered Oregon too late to qualify. The outcome, while no runaway, is certain to hearten Stevenson managers in the final major primary contests coming up in Florida and California.

The Democratic write-in amounted to about 60 per cent of the party vote selecting Morse as the Senate candidate over a little known opponent. It failed, too, to match the Republican turnout, although the Democrats now hold a thin majority of the state registration.

The spirited battle between McKay, a favorite target of Democratic critics, and his main challenger, Phil Hitchcock, probably contributed to the relatively big Republican showing at the polls.

Latest returns from 1,997 of the state's 2,519 polling places:

Eisenhower (unopposed): 125,061.

Nixon (write-in): 26,071.

Kekauver 36,162; Stevenson 52,783.

Hitchcock 60,695; McKay 74,702.

Morse 110,314; Smith 23,933.

The presidential vote pledged 18 delegates to the Republican National Convention to Eisenhower and 16 Democratic delegates to Stevenson. Republican delegates, in addition, will be bound to Nixon for renomination by his write-in support.

Charles Brannan Enters Race For U.S. Senate Seat

DENVER (AP) — Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture in the Truman cabinet and author of the Brannan farm plan, entered the race today for the United States Senate seat from Colorado held by veteran Republican Eugene D. Millikin.

Brannan, 52, is the first candidate to announce for the Democratic senatorial nomination and will pitch part of his campaign on farm policies of the Eisenhower administration.

Millikin, 65, is a veteran of 14 years in the Senate. Despite an illness which sidelined him for several months last winter, he has told reporters he is available for nomination to another six-year Senate term if the Republicans want him.

Brannan is making his first bid for elective office and may have opposition for nomination at the Sept. 11 primary from John A. Carroll of Denver, former congressman and one-time Truman adviser on legislative affairs.

Brannan has been practicing law in Denver since his retirement from the cabinet in January, 1953, at the end of the Truman administration. He is general counsel for the National Farmers' Union.

Paroled Convict Shoots, Kills Two Officers In Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — A paroled convict shot and killed a traffic patrolman and a department store detective Saturday amid shopping crowds near Public Square. The gunman was slain by police bullets after a chase through stores and along busy streets and back alleys.

Shot to death were:

Patrolam Joseph Haydu, 34, a traffic patrolman for 10 years.

Frank Begin, 58, store detective at the Higbee Co. and former Cleveland Heights detective.

Frank Williams, Negro about 40, the gunman, who police said had a criminal record going back to 1923.

The shot-punctuated chase started in the basement of the S. S. Kresge Co. at 402 Euclid Ave. It moved through another Kresge store at 216 Euclid and in and out of the Higbee Co. department store on Public Square.

Arthur J. Loesser, 29, and Emil Lowe, 52, assistant manager at Kresge's, said they saw Williams pointing a pistol at Mrs. Joanne Morrison, 64, a clerk, behind a counter of the shoe department in the basement of the Kresge store at 402 Euclid.

Grabbing $160 in bills from Mrs. Morrison, Williams ran from the store with the unarmed Loesser and Lowe pursuing. Patrolman Haydu was killed by a single shot in the chest from Williams' Luger pistol.

The gunman grabbed the fallen officer's pistol, ran out onto Euclid Ave. and into the Higbee store. Begin was cut down with a shot in the chest as he tried to intercept Williams near the main-floor jewelry counter.

Sirens screaming, police cars converged on the Public Square area as Williams ran southeast toward Carnegie Ave., disappearing in and out of alleys so that his pursuers occasionally lost sight of him.

Sgt. Bernard Schweter of the hit-skip accident unit spotted the running Williams and took after him on E. 9th St., yelling: "Stop, or I'll shoot."

"The gunman was running faster than I could," Schweter said, "and got 50 feet ahead of me, then whirled. He drew two guns. I fired twice and ducked behind a parked car. He fired three times, hitting three different parked cars, including the one I used as a shield."

One of Schweter's shots dropped Williams.

THE VENOMOUS WORM'

IF YOUR ANCESTORS were in school a hundred years ago they read this famous essay, which appeared in McGuffey's Eclectic Fourth Reader in 1854 and was reprinted for years. Some persons say that it was translated into every language in the world and distributed throughout by American and European temperance societies.

THE VENOMOUS WORM

"Outvenoms all the worms of the Nile."—Shakespeare.

Who has not heard of the rattlesnake or copperhead? An unexpected sight of either of these reptiles will make even the lords of creation recoil; but there is a species of worm, found in various parts of this state, which conveys a poison of a nature so deadly, that compared with it, even the venom of the rattlesnake is harmless. To guard our readers against this foe of human kind is the object of this lesson.

This worm varies much in size. It is frequently an inch in diameter, but, as it is rarely seen, except when coiled, its length can hardly be conjectured. It is of a dull lead color, and generally lives near a spring or small stream of water, and bites the unfortunate people who are in the habit of going there to drink. The brute creation it never molests. They avoid it with the same instinct that teaches the animals of Peru to shun the deadly coya.

Several of these reptiles have long infested our settlements, to the misery and destruction of many of our fellow citizens. I have, therefore, had frequent opportunities of being the melancholy spectator of the effects produced by the subtle poison which this worm infuses.

The systems of the bite are terrible. The eyes of the patient become red and fiery, his tongue swells to an immoderate size, and obstructs his utterance; and delirium of the most horrid character quickly follows. Sometimes, in his madness, he attempts the destruction of his nearest friends.

If the sufferer has a family, his weeping wife and helpless infants are not unfrequently the objects of his frantic fury. In a word, he exhibits, to the life, all the detestable passions that rankle in the bosom of a savage; and, such is the spell in which his senses are locked, that, no sooner has the unhappy patient recovered from the paroxysm of insanity, occasioned by the bite, that he seeks out the destroyer, for the sole purpose of being bitten again.

I have seen a good old father, his locks as white as snow, his step slow and trembling, beg in vain of his only son to quit the lurking place of the worm. My heart bled when he turned away; for I knew the fond hope, that his son would be the "staff of his declining years," had supported him through many a sorrow.

Youths of America, would you know the name of this reptile? It is called the Worm of the Still.

S. Jacksonville Pupils Display Art At Gallery

The South Jacksonville School art exhibit, which opened Friday evening at the Strawn Art Gallery, will be continued through Friday, May 25. The public is invited to visit any day of the week from 3:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon or from 7:00 to 9:00 in the evening. Sunday's hours are 3:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Room displays show the varied experiences with art materials available in the public schools—experiences which have resulted from work done in units of study and in exploratory projects developed throughout the past year.

The exhibit of the two first grades will take guests to the circus where Dottie, the bareback rider, and her pony, Spottie, from Mrs. Lansink's room, and Wheatie, the giant clown, and his friends from Mrs. Daniel's room are holding the limelight.

In contrast, the North Pole and our Eskimo cousins amid their ice and snow prove that much interest has been created by a unit of work done by pupils in Mrs. Rhode's second grade.

A miniature city of Jacksonville, as built by second graders in Miss Seaton's room, will give visitors an "airplane" view of sights around town and the neighboring community with some everyday neighborly activities depicted in clay—a culmination of the annual unit of study on community helpers.

The "Big Book" as displayed by Mrs. Burch's third grade takes one across the seas within a few minutes' time, yet gives a "world of information," to the traveler.

All Grades Represented

A beautiful study of many possible types of design as created by third grade girls and boys in Miss Francisco's room will delight everyone.

An outstanding mural, the accomplishment of fourth graders in Mrs. Fitzsimmons' room, shows the pioneer fathers as they lived in early Illinois history. The accompanying collection of curios from the past adds interest to the display.

The coming of spring, with all the beautiful flying birds and blooming flowers, has never been more welcoming than encouraged by Mrs. Keller's fourth graders in their creativity.

A combined display from the fifth-grade rooms of Mrs. Long and Miss Dennis shows mounted samples of many different types of work which are the result of students, exploration of the uses of art materials now available. A collection of handmade aluminum bracelets is especially noteworthy.

A showing of soap carving, wire sculpture, and watercolor work done by Mr. Thaxton's sixth graders proves that much can be done when exploring with some of the creative crafts and hobbies popular with young people.

The seventh-grade students in Mr. Medlock's room have delved into third dimension and have come up with many fascinating studies in string and toothpick structure—a bit startling to the eye.

Visitors will find a trip through the art gallery both a profitable and an enjoyable experience.

Martin investigated and learned his sister was right. He was 69 instead of 57.

AT KNOWLES RITES

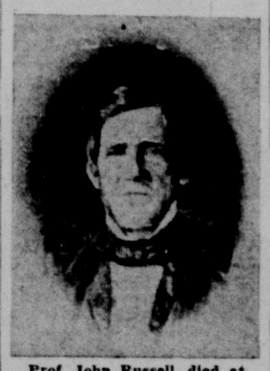

John Marshall and C. O. Gordon were pallbearers at the funeral services held Wednesday afternoon at the Gillham funeral home for H. V. (Pat) Knowles. The names were unintentionally omitted from a previous account.

Hans Christian Andersen was 70 years old when he died in 1875.

Bluff Dale—Home of Prof. John Allen of Greene County

BLUFF DALE was the pen name of Prof. John Russell of Greene county. He was a scholar of great force and modesty. Educated Europeans often asked "How do we get to Bluffdale?" as soon as they stepped off the boat at New York and dismayed to learn that the sage of Bluffdale lived so far to the west. But a lot of them made the trip anyway and the house pictured above entertained many esteemed guests.

Prof. John Russell, died at Bluffdale, Jan. 2, 1863.

Russell was a master of most of the ancient and modern languages and was familiar with the classics of both ages, and particularly the Greek and the French. He came from a family of writers, clergymen and teachers and graduated from Middlebury College, Vermont. He was associated with several colleges in the middle west and for a time was president of Shurtleff College, Alton.

The house, built in 1828 of limestone blocks quarried from the bluff which towers in the rear, is located about four miles north of Eldred. John Reynolds, writing for the Belleville Advocate in 1857, rhapsodized:

"At the base of the bluff, near the mansion, gushes out of the rocks a perpetual fountain, which winds its way through the premises of the Professor toward the Illinois river, blending together both beauty and utility. The fabled water nymphs might enjoy an appropriate resting place in this clear and beautiful stream."

The sad fact is that the "perpetual fountain" dried up three years ago.

There are four rooms in the basement and four rooms downstairs. In the garret there was a long single room lined with shelves filled with the books in many languages and devoted to almost every subject.

The house is now the residence of a great-grand-grandson, W. R. Hobson, formerly of Greenfield; his wife, Mary, and their son, David, 10 months old. The property is owned by Hobson's mother, Mrs. Mary Keller Hobson of Greenfield.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hobson were high schol teachers before moving to the farm in the spring of 1955. Hobson continues to teach a GI agriculture class attended by fellow veterans of the Korea War.

There's been some changes made in the old house. The Hobsons have closed the seven fireplaces, including the massive one in the kitchen that had one big enough to roast a small deer. And the young couple now have a bathroom, which they built practically themselves.

Prof. Russell was buried in a private cemetery a few rods south of the house. Near him is the body of his famous great-granddaughter, Miss Annie Keller, who was killed while protecting her pupils when a tornado struck her country school in the spring of 1927. A monument commemorating her heroism stands in White Hall.

Jacksonville Man In Hospital With Wound

Alvin Wiley, 35, of 902 North Clay avenue, is under treatment at Our Saviour's hospital for a bullet wound in his left ankle, as the result of trouble which broke out early yesterday morning in front of the Wabash hotel at Springfield.

Wiley is said to have been struck by a bullet which went wide of another man, with whom the firer of the shot was having trouble. The wounded man came to Jacksonville by automobile after the shooting, which occurred at 1:30 a.m.

Capt. LeRoy Leach and Patrolman Walter Hill went to the hospital, talked with Wiley, and later talked with James Robinson of this city, who was a witness to the shooting. The shot that wounded Wiley is said to have been fired by a Springfield man.

The bullet was removed from Wiley's ankle, but he remained at the hospital for treatment.

Jacksonville police conferred with Springfield officers concerning the case.

Wiley and Robinson are reported to have told local police that they would not sign a warrant for the Springfield man.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Pessina observed their silver wedding anniversary with a buffet-dance Saturday evening, May 12, at 6:30 o'clock in the Banquet Room of the Dunlap Hotel.

Many relatives and friends filed through the reception line to extend congratulations to the couple.

Silver was predominate in the decorative scheme, with accents of pink and pale green. The focal point was a large silver wedding bell, flanked at either side with huge sprays of pink carnations.

Bouquets of pink carnations adorned the large serving table, which was laden with a variety of hors d'oeuvres. The table was skirted with pale green net and garlanded with smilax.

Adding a sentimental note was a duplicate of the bridal bouquet carried by Mrs. Pessina at her wedding. Fashioned of pale pink and yellow roses, with a touch of lily of the valley, the bouquet was tied with streamers of white lace, knotted with little pink rosebuds.

It was placed on the wall above the wedding cake and spotlighted throughout the evening. The cake was triple tiered, lavishly decorated with white flowers and topped with three silver wedding bells.

After the cake cutting ritual, a buffet dinner was served. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening, with music by Bob Sassenberger and his Blue Notes.

Mrs. Pessina wore a gown of delicate pink peau de soie, trimmed with pearls and rhinestones. Matching slippers and an orchid corsage completed her costume.

Her jewelry, also worn at her wedding, was a white gold pendant, set with black onyx and diamond, and a bracelet of crystal and diamonds. The latter was also worn by her daughter at her own wedding.

Wed At Benton

Emma Arnodo and Louis Pessina were married on May 10, 1931, at Benton. They resided in St. Louis for ten years before moving to Jacksonville 15 years ago. Their home is at 1900 Mound Road.

They have one daughter, Elvera, now Mrs. Warren Barrow, and one grandson, Daniel Louis Barrow, one year old.

Special guests at the anniversary party were Mrs. Pessina's mother, Mrs. Elvera Arnodo of Christopher, and Mr. Pessina's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pessina of St. Louis.

Other out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chairotino, Mr. and Mrs. George Misek, Mrs. Catherine Oldani, Mr. and Mrs. Al Kurtz, Miss Judy Kurtz, Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kleinschmidt of Arenzville route one and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Treadway of Beardstown.

The ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. Henry Allwardt before a large gathering of friends and relatives. The altar was decorated at either side with baskets of white gladioli and banked with ferns. Tall white tapers burned in branched candelabra.

Before the nuptial ceremony, Wilbur Kleinschmidt of Racine, Wisconsin, brother of the bride, played an organ prelude. Robert Wessler, accompanied by Jerry Lovekamp, step-brother of the bride, sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the exchange of vows.

Miss Donna Schone of River Forest was the bride's only attendant. The groom was attended by Harry Knippenberg, Jr., of Beardstown. Ushers were Glen Miller of Beardstown, cousin of the groom, and Dean Kleinschmidt of Arenzville, brother of the bride.

Wears Lace and Tulle

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a traditionally white formal gown with billowing skirt over hoops. The fitted bodice was of Rose Point lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. Dainty petal scallops underscored with tulle formed the wide winging V neckline. Long lace sleeves tapered to points over her hands. A lace peplum issued out from the tiny waistline into four points framing the bouffant skirt of tiered tulle ruffles.

Her fingertip length veil of illusion fell from a dainty lace half-hat studded with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, the gift of her bridegroom.

Miss Schone wore a poudre blue gown of net over taffeta. The bodice was all tucked and snug fitting before the voluminous skirt billowed to floor length. The ruffles on the skirt formed a scalloped design. She wore a headdress and mitts to match the color of her gown and carried a bouquet of red roses. Pearl necklace and small earrings completed her costume.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Kleinschmidt wore a blue silk shantung suit dress with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Treadway, mother of the groom, wore navy blue figure with white accessories and a corsage of red carnations.

Dr. Belinson Speaks To Local BPW

The members of the Business and Professional Women's Club had the pleasure of hearing a talk on Mental Health.

Dr. Mary Louise Newman, chairman of the Health Committee, presented Dr. Louis Belinson, superintendent of the Jacksonville State Hospital, as the speaker. Dr. Belinson spoke on the values of having care for this disease. In mental illness, there are many pitfalls, or difficulties for the person afflicted. We find a growing realization of this illness very close to us.

Anxiety is a free floating condition. This is a bad result from discomforts or indecisions, which in time will cause the person to become a neurotic. Anxiety can create a very serious state of mind. A neurotic has a great deal of trouble, handling the problems of life; but, do not have to be hospitalized. Many persons in this stage, fail to see their family physician, until it is almost too late. Relative neurotics become psychotics.

Dr. Newman introduced Jerry Belinson, son of the speaker, who sang "Angels In the Sky," "He," "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," and "Love and Marriage." He was accompanied by Mrs. Alta Eisch.

Two new members were introduced: Miss Mary Jane Wagner and Miss Kubel.

ICEC Funds Await Prospective Special Education Teacher

The International Fair which was held on March 10th and sponsored by the Jacksonville chapter of the International Council for Exceptional Children helped to realize two objectives proposed by the Council members. One of the objectives was to provide the general public with information concerning the special problems of the exceptional child along with what special education can do for these children in helping them to achieve normal, useful lives. The other purpose was to help in a local way to solve the national shortage of teachers trained in special education.

The need for some means of recruiting teachers was apparent when the Council discovered that, in the entire country, only fifty qualified teachers of the deaf were graduated last year, and that in Illinois alone, at least thirty teaching jobs for speech correction teachers could not be filled because of the lack of personnel. In other areas of special education such as education for the educable mentally handicapped, the blind, and the gifted, the shortage of trained personnel was just as acute.

It was felt that more students could be attracted to these teaching fields if a scholarship could be provided. The idea of the International Fair was conceived and the Fair was carried out with that goal in mind. Many local people and business firms were most generous in the giving of their time and aid in helping to make the Fair realize its objectives.

Money Now Ready

The net proceeds from the Fair amounted to $1,100. This sum has been turned over to the scholarship fund which is to be expended between September 1956 and June 1958 with five hundred and fifty dollars to be available per school year. The scholarship committee has reported that any person who submits a plan of training which is directed toward initial or additional professional preparation in any area of special education may be considered eligible for a grant from this fund. (Undergraduates must have "declared" an area of specialization and have a junior or senior standing). Grants will be available to students in Jacksonville, Morgan County, and the State of Illinois in that order.

Selection of the candidates will be based on the candidate's scholarship, need, and the probability of his teaching in the local area. Applications should contain information which will facilitate this selection such as scholastic record, stated needs and objectives. The committee also reported that first consideration will be given to undergraduates and graduate students who wish to transfer to special education, and that the same person would be eligible to apply for the second year.

Persons interested in applying for a scholarship should make application to Mr. Ivan Garrison, Director of Special Service, 506 Jordan avenue, in Jacksonville. Applications should be submitted by August 15, 1956.

Miss Kathryn Mae Wahlfeld is the news correspondent for this paper in the Chandlerville area which sometimes includes Menard and Mason county. She has written news for the Jacksonville paper since 1947.

One of her many good qualities is consistency. Today, May twenty, marks 21 years Miss Wahlfeld has worked at the Vollmer store in Chandlerville. She has seen many changes in the buying habits of the public since first becoming a saleslady in the general store.

Her working hours vary according to the business demand in the concern that carries both dry goods and groceries and meats. Contact with the public while clerking has been a great help in gathering news.

Last January Miss Wahlfeld observed 31 years perfect Sunday School attendance at the First Congregational church in her home town. During that time she has served as the pianist for 20 years, and secretary-treasurer for 17 years. For the past sixteen years she has taught in the Sunday School at the present time being with the intermediate class.

Since her high school days Kathryn Mae has kept a Memory Book and each year, ever since her graduation, she has added important events to the account. The book has been of great value in checking back on data in the past.

The Chandlerville reporter's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wahlfeld. Her mother's maiden name was Camp and she is a former school teacher. Mr. Wahlfeld is employed at Rockford.

Kathryn Mae was born near Chandlerville and when she was quite young the family moved to New Canton. In 1924 the Wahlfelds became residents of Talulla. Since 1930 they have made their home at Chandlerville.

Has Many Hobbies

Our newswriter has many hobbies. She is especially fond of domestic animals and until recently has always had a cat for a pet. She collects souvenir spoons which are displayed on a rack at her home. Miss Wahlfeld also enjoys collecting salt and pepper shakers. She prefers those made from cedar or china, animal or fowl shaped sets.

During World War Two her writing ability provided interesting mail for 32 different servicemen from the Chandlerville area.

KATHRYN MAE WAHLFELD

She makes many of her own clothes having started to sew while a freshman in high school. This talent also includes embroidery, crocheting, quilting and Swedish darning.

The accompanying picture shows Miss Wahlfeld at her piano where she relaxes with her music when not busy clerking at the store, writing news for the Jacksonville paper, doing housework, sewing, etc.

The Wahlfeld home is the scene for many social gatherings and friendly song fests.

The sleeves of the gown were long and tapered coming to a point over the hands. The full skirt of lace over satin had a hemline of hand clipped medalions of lace on accordian pleated tulle. Junior Club Names Mrs. Roberts "Club Member Of The Year 1956"

The current season of the Junior Woman's club concluded last Monday evening, May 14, with a dinner meeting at the Jacksonville Country Club followed with a dance.

The highlight of the evening was the naming of the outstanding club member of the year, Jessica Roberts. The novel presentation was made in a mock "This is Your Life" skit. Lois Freeman was in charge of the surprise program and cleverly brought forth nostalgic moments in the life of Mrs. Perry Roberts.

The club president, Dorothy Ferry, presented Mrs. Roberts with an award and a corsage. One of the deciding factors in Mrs. Roberts' being named the outstanding club member was her willingness and capability in filling in the office of press and publicity chairman for the 20th district which was left open during the current club-year by the resignation of Mrs. L. L. Edlen, senior club member who was unable to complete her term because of more pressing duties.

Mrs. Roberts was the first junior club member to serve in this district office.

The script for the skit was written by Donna Jones with Marietta Vasconcellos and Rosemary Blazier. Donna Jones portrayed the part of a person in the past of Mrs. Roberts.

The invocation before the dinner was offered by Cecelia Sorrill and the pledge to the flag led by Vivian Bonjean.

Ashland Streets Illuminated By $7,000 Lights

ASHLAND — Ashland is very proud of its new Mercury vapor lights, eighteen in number, which have been turned on. The lights were erected around the business district. It was discovered the first night the lights were on, that the street starting at Hexter's store and ending at Lillian's Knotty Pine needed another light. It was decided at a special meeting held this week, that the light in front of Nollsch Hardware would be moved and placed in front of Brownback's Drug Store and the other light be installed in front of the Legion hall.

This one street was a little dim but with the adjustment, the whole business district will be well lighted.

The new lights will cost about $7,000 and will be paid for out of sales tax money.

AWD And Auxiliary To Fete Gold Star Parents Tuesday

The annual banquet honoring all Gold Star parents in Morgan county sponsored by the local American War Dads chapter 28 and its Auxiliary will be held at seven o'clock Tuesday evening, May 22, at the American Legion Home.

The dinner is sponsored by the Blue Star Members of the local AWD chapter and Auxiliary. The guests of honor are not necessarily members of the organization or the Auxiliary but include any parent or guardian of a service man or woman who lost his or her life in service to our country.

MRS. W. F. FANNING

On the local level along with Mrs. Fanning as special guests Tuesday night will be Mrs. Clyde Vasconcellos of the city, national councilwoman of the American War Dads Auxiliaries; Wallace Hembrough, national vice president of the American War Dads; Mrs. John Blank, president of the local Auxiliary and William Graubner, president of the local War Dads.

Invitations have been sent to all known Gold Star parents in Morgan county. If by oversight anyone has been omitted they are asked to please phone the local president, Mrs. John Bland, Chestnut 3-2938 immediately.

MRS. ROY ACKMAN

The local chapter and Auxiliary feels indeed fortunate to be able to present to the Gold Star Parents at the dinner Tuesday evening the national president of the American War Dads Auxiliaries, Mrs. Ackman.

This Macomb woman is leading the activities of the thousands of mothers of the Auxiliary in their patriotic service as the eleventh national president for the year, 1956.

Mrs. Ackman is eligible to membership in the parenthood organization through the military service of her son, James Leroy Ackman, Jr. who served with the 421st Army Band in Bremerhaven, Germany from 1946 to 1949.

Dedicated to the purpose of serving her fellowman, Mrs. Ackman, joined the Auxiliary in 1946 and has an impressive record in the Auxiliary. She has served as chapter officer ranging from sergeant-at-arms to president.

The American War Dads organization was established in 1943 composed of the fathers and fathers-in-law and step-fathers of those who fought in World War Two. Fathers of Korean veterans and those in service now are also eligible. The Auxiliary, composed of the Mothers of all veterans and servicemen as listed above, was organized in 1945.

The national headquarters is in Kansas City, Mo. The purpose of the organization, a national one, are to conduct activities of benefit to the returned veterans, to assist Gold Star Families, to aid disabled and hospitalized veterans and to foster such national measures as will help establish a just and lasting peace.

Ashland Poppy Day, May 26th

ASHLAND— Bright red poppies bloomed in profusion in the American Legion home Friday. They are the poppies which will be worn here on Poppy Day, May 26, to pay tribute to the memory of America's war dead.

The members of the Auxiliary's Poppy committee unpacked them from the boxes in which they came in. They were counted and arranged for distribution to the volunteer workers, who will offer them on the streets of Ashland on Poppy Day.

Made of crepe paper with wrapped wire stems, the poppies are the handwork of disabled Veterans at the hospital. Each group of the little flowers showed slight differences, depending on the skill of the maker, but each will have the same meaning when worn on Poppy Day—"Honor the Dead, Aid the Disabled."

New York Stock Market

By RADER WINGET

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market this week bumped down to a new low for its six-week reaction.

Stockholders were quick to sell on news they considered unfavorable, and buyers were slow to come into the market at the lower prices.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week lost $2.60 at $185.30. During the week it dipped to $184.40. That was $7.10 under the record high point reached April 6. Since then the market has been going through a series of irregularly lower price swings.

Action of the market this week produced a number of interesting technical developments which have led some brokers to conclude it still has to prove its strength. In the absence of that proof, brokers believe the reaction still could continue.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were General Motors off ½ at 42⅝ on 236,000 shares; Lowe's up ¼ at 23⅞; American Bosch up 1 at 21¾; Standard Oil (NJ) off ⅛ at 57⅜, and U.S. Steel off 2⅜ at 56⅜.

The five most active issues this week on the American Stock Exchange were Canada Southern Petroleum up 1-16 at 3 11-16 on 169,100 shares; British Petroleum up 1 at 20¾; New British Dominion Oil up ⅜ at 3¼; Barium Steel up ¼ at 7¾, and Great Lakes Oil up ⅜ at 2¼.

French, Soviet LeadersEndTalks, Nothing Settled

MOSCOW (AP)—French and Soviet leaders ended four days of haggling talks Saturday night with a communique conceding they settled no problems but expressing belief the cold war will be liquidated.

French hopes that Russia would support them in the Algerian rebellion were demolished. The communique-signing ceremony itself was delayed for four hours by the wrangling over North Africa.

Party Secretary Nikita Khrushchev at a Kremlin reception bluntly proposed a toast to "the Arabs and all peoples struggling for national independence." Premier Nikolai Bulganin joined in the toast.

The communique declared the Russians hoped France would be able to solve the Algerian problem "in the spirit of our epoch and in the interest of the peoples."

The communique noted Russia suggested French-Soviet trade could be tripled within three years if "restrictions and discriminations" are abolished. No French reaction was given.

Stolen Document Was Directory Of U. S. Air Bases

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — A high Justice Department official said Saturday a "secret" document allegedly stolen by an Air Force sergeant contains a directory of all the U. S. Air Force bases and organizations throughout the world.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. William F. Tompkins described the document as "of the utmost intelligence significance" and added it contains information within the meaning of the espionage laws.

The document has been recovered and is now in government hands.

The head of the Justice Department's internal security division also branded as "absolutely untrue" the claim that the secret paper was a mailing list of military personnel.

"It has been said that the document was a mailing list containing the home address of soldiers. This, too, is absolutely false," he added.

Tompkins said a warning was written across the center of the cover page that "this document contains information affecting the national defense" and "its transmission or revelation of its contents in any manner to an unauthorized person is prohibited by law."

FBI agents arrested four persons Thursday in connection with the theft of the document—Air Force Sgt. Harold E. Brill, 28, who is accused of stealing it, and three New Jersey businessmen.

Brill is stationed at the Brooklyn Army terminal where the document was allegedly stolen. He has been released in $500 bail.

Wilson Hints At Action

One Army paper said:

"Although we have expended a large share of our national resources for military and related purposes, our outlay has not been correctly related to the nature of the threat. The President has said that thermonuclear war is 'unthinkable.' He has called for the ability to meet a variety of threats short of all-out war, for this is the probable danger.

"Yet we continue to pour excessive manpower and money into an Air Force which has been substantially neutralized and which pleads for more money, more money, more money. We continue to divert large quantities of our military manpower into a Navy that is seriously threatened by a nation with practically no naval experience or tradition."

This was a reference to Russia, with its large fleets of submarines.

There were also contentions that the Air Force and Navy do not have needed capacities to transport and suply Army forces. It was argued that under present policies the United States is not preparing properly to fight wars that fall short of total war—with the result that the country may be "forced into either total war or subjugation."

Modifies Parts Ike Disliked

Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, sought an immediate meeting of House and Senate conferees in the event the House refuses to accept the new Senate bill as is.

Rep. Hope of Kansas, senior committee Republican, told newsmen "I can't conceive of it being very difficult to get together on the bill."

However, Rep. Poage (D-Tex) indicated a fight may be impending and declared "it may take quite some time to get an agreement."

He itemized as "basic differences" Senate omission of a House provision spelling out congressional intent for getting the soil bank into operation this year, and Senate approval of the cut-rate sale of 100 million bushels of surplus wheat annually as livestock feed.

WAVERLY— Thursday morning 18 tractors and some 25 farmers, good neighbors of Glendon Downing, did the spring plowing for him, getting in the corn and bean crops. Downing was taken ill and entered Passavant hospital in Jacksonville Friday.

Those assisting were Albert Schramm, Preston Turner, Olin Stubblefield, Robert Stubblefield, George Huffaker, Orland Brown, George Dippel, George Brown, Stanley Stevenson, Paul Sadler, Ray Maginn, Claude Smith, Howard Bridges, Gerald Shumaker, Dale Wilcox, Leslie Kumler, Harold Mitchell, Elmer Schramm, Grover Bever, Ralph Moore, Herman Duewer, John DeRossear, Roy Downing, Conlee Downing, Harman Nagle and John Anderson.

DeRosear has been doing the milking chores since Glendon has been ill.

Bishop William A. O'Connor of Springfield made an official visit to St. Sebastian church Tuesday, his first since 1951, and during his stay confirmed 15 children and four adults. The children were Bernard Bowman, James Fitzpatrick, John Kindred, Michael Mitchell, Thomas Mitchell, Lawrence Nagel, Russell Nagel, Ronald Ryan, Lawrence Reichart, Susan Bowman, Marilyn Fitzpatrick, Kathy Romang, Judy Scott, Mary Ellen Smith and Patricia Smith.

After the confirmation, the Bishop and 10 visiting priests were guests of the Waverly priest, the Rev. M. Kerns, at a supper served by the ladies of the parish in the basement of the church.

Last Sunday six children received first communion at St. Sebastian church. Nicholas Bowman, Paul Johnson, John Peterson, James Michael Smith, Kathryn Fitzpatrick and Alice Jean Hermes.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

July-September Production Dip Expected

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The business pattern for the rest of 1956, as seen by the country's top industrialists, is: a current money shortage; a July-September dip in actual production; and at the year end, a pickup to record levels of national output.

The report was delivered to Secretary of Commerce Weeks by 19 members of his Business Advisory Council, in session here. The 165-member council includes the heads of many of the country's largest corporations.

If there is any gain in total output in the July-September quarter, Weeks was told, it will be the result of price increases rather than actual growth in the volume of goods and services sold.

After the closed meeting with the blue-ribbon advisory group, Weeks and the chairman of BAC's Economic Policy Committee, T. V. Houser, gave reporters a briefing on the reports from key industries. Houser, who is board chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., said:

"There is a likelihood of some drop in the third quarter, due to a slower rate of inventory buying, but the expectation is that the fourth quarter will regain today's level in volume.

"If there is an increase in prices, the value of total production will be above the current high level."

Weeks said he gleans from the appraisals the impression there will be "a slackening in the third quarter, followed by a resumption in growth."

Sir MaxBeerbohm, British Satirist, Dies In Italy

RAPALLO, Italy (AP) — Sir Max Beerbohm, one of the greatest satirists of his age, died Sunday in a clinic near the Italian Riviera villa where he long had lived in seclusion. He was 83.

The British genius of caricature slipped into a coma Saturday. He had been suffering from a heart ailment and gout.

The cherub-faced satirist came here 40 years ago from London with his bride, the American actress Florence Kahn.

From then on he treasured the quiet life among piles of books and blooming fruit trees at his little walled villa, Chiarno, just outside this tourist town. Few tourists knew who he was. Still fewer were invited to his home.

Bloom Of Chicago Wins Prep Track Meet

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A tip from Bob Elliott and Paul Richards' switch from Chicago to Baltimore gave the Orioles Donald Hugh Ferrarese, who schooled observers predict will continue handcuffing American League batters.

Elliott, who murdered southpaw pitching in the National League for 13 years, faced Don Ferrarese in the Pacific Coast League. Toward the end of the 1954 season, he told Richards, then managing the White Sox, that this was one left-hander who got right-hand hitters out. That's why the South Siders paid Oakland $30,000 for Ferrarese's contract.

Richards remembered Elliott's tip, and his second package deal in Baltimore — the first gave the Yankees Bob Turley and Don Larsen — was with the White Sox and included the unknown little portsider, Ferrarese.

Oddly enough, Ferrarese, who hold the Yankees hitless for eight innings and dealt the champions their first shutout in 96 games, or since last July 6, the other afternoon, was plucked out of Saint Mary's College and off the Oakland sandlots by none other than Casey Stengel.

* * *

FERRARESE — PRONOUNCED Fer-are-ees — struck out 21 Indians and Yankees in his first two outings, losing a heart-breaker to Bob Lemon and Cleveland while fanning 13. He slammed the door in the Yankees' faces for two innings in a relief assignment.

"When I first saw the kid in 1948, I hesitated about signing him because he was so small," recalls Professor Stengel. Ferrarese, 26, of Italian parentage, now stands 5-9, weighs 165.

"Oakland farmed him out and you'd hear, 'He's all right, but —'. The young left-hander's usual trouble. He was wild," explains Manager Stengel.

In eight seasons in the minors, with two out for Army service in Honolulu, during which he pitched, Ferrarese was undistinguished save for two stints. He won 18 for Oakland in 1954, fanning 184 but walking 174. Shipped to San Antonio for the closing five weeks of last season, he had a 9-0 record, whiffing 99 while walking 47 with an earned-run average of 1.49.

* * *

FERRARESE CREDITS Charley Dressen and Richards with helping him most.

"I was strictly a thrower before Dressen got hold of me in Oakland," he recollects. "He helped me most by just pitching me. He shortened my stride.

"Richards balanced my pitching stance. I had been a bad pitcher with men on bases. It took Richards and the coaching staff till spring, but they got my weight back on the left foot so I could get leverage on the ball."

"Don was wild to the left," explains Richards. "So we moved everything six inches to the right and that was it."

The Indians and Yankees agree that Ferrarese, whose big league speed is faster than it looks, has the best curve they've seen thus far this year. It breaks down and away at the last split-second. Casey Stengel adds that the young man is the fastest pitcher he has set eyes on this season.

"He's quick in the strike zone, which is the secret of pitching," concludes Paul Richards. "When pitchers with sweeping curves get a piece of the plate, umpires just don't call strikes."

Don Ferrarese, you see, convinces everybody, including the umpires.

'I Always Hate Best Club In League;' Maglie

BROOKLYN (AP)—Too bad the old Brooklyn Eagle folded. It could have had a happy headline day with the Sal Maglie story.

"Barber loves Brooks."

"Sal don't hate us no more."

"Maglie makes up."

The sideburned villain from the New York Giants showed up in Brooklyn Friday after a stopover in Cleveland, to wind up smoking the peace pipe in the office of Buzzy Bavasi, the Dodgers' vice president.

Sal was saddened by the death of his father in Niagara Falls, N. Y., earlier in the day and was anxious to catch a plane for home. But he went through with the pre-arranged news conference. He will rejoin the Dodgers Monday.

A fellow asked if it were possible for a professional athlete to "hate" an opponent like Maglie was supposed to have "hated" Brooklyn.

"Brooklyn was the best so I hated them," he said. "I always hated anybody that was the best in any league. When I was in the Cuba league I hated Havana. When I was in Mexico, I hated Mexico City. When I was with Cleveland, I hated the Yankees. And now, who'll I hate? It kind of looks like St. Louis."

Maglie, 39, gave his version of the incident in 1954 when Carl Furillo, then and now Brooklyn's right fielder, "threw" or "let slip" a bat in the direction of Maglie after a pitch had gone behind him.

"Here's what happened that day. George Shuba was up and I told Al Dark to move Monte Irvin over near the foul line in left field because I was going to pitch away. The next pitch, Shuba hit down the foul line for three bases and there was Irvin still in left center.

"I just got mad and threw the next ball up the screen, behind Furillo."

Maglie pitched only five innings for Cleveland for a 0-0 record. However, his National League lifetime record shows a handsome 23-11 bulge over the Dodgers. Still, he was smart enough to say, "I'm glad I don't have to face this club any more. They're the toughest."

PCC Places Cal On Probation For Three Years

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—The University of California at Los Angeles was placed on probation for three years Saturday by the Pacific Coast Conference and "fined" approximately $95,000.

A direct fine of $15,000 was given UCLA for refusing to give the conference commissioner "the opportunity to conduct an investigation of financial aid given to athletes."

The rest of the assessment is the estimated $78,000 or more the university will lose in Rose Bowl receipts during its probationary period.

In what may be the most severe punishment ever handed a major college, the conference went beyond the penalty it handed May 5-6 to the University of Washington at an emergency session.

Washington was placed on probation for two years, got no direct fine but will lose approximately $52,000 in Rose Bowl receipts.

In addition, the conference revoked the right of UCLA alumni to transport prospective athletes to the campus. This is a permitted practice throughout the conference but was not revoked in the Washington case.

The case against UCLA accused the school of failure to cooperate with the commissioner and with giving unsatisfactory explanations when queried about reports of irregularities.

It said the school "has not denied" that members of the athletic staff had cooperated with booster clubs suspected of activities in violation of conference regulations.

The probationary period for both schools starts next Aug. 1. Washington's exile ends in July, 1958. UCLA will be on the sidelines until July 1, 1959—or longer.

The conference issued a four-page bill of particulars against UCLA and followed that 15 minutes later with three-page listing of the penalties.

The summary said Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt had investigated the charge by a former UCLA athlete that athletes were receiving $40 monthly payments outside conference rules. It said this testimony "further collaborates a mass of circumstantial evidence previously accumulated by the commissioner and reported to the conference and to UCLA."

The booster clubs named were the Bruin Bench and the Young Men's Club of Westwood.

Michign Star, Tony Branoff, Inks Pro Pact

CHICAGO (AP) — Right halfback Tony Branoff, a key man in Michigan's attack last fall, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals, the pro football club's managing director, Walter Wolfner, announced Saturday.

Branoff, the Cards 23rd choice in the National Football League player draft, stands 5-10½, weighs 200 pounds and is 22 years old. His home is in Flint, Mich.

Stock Car Races Get Underway In J'ville; Vance Wins Feature

An enthusiastic crowd of 1200 racing fans roared their approval at the opening of the stock car racing season Friday night at the Morgan County Fairgrounds speedway.

The track was fast and in good shape. The weather was ideal for the opener.

Dick Vance of Hannibal, Mo., won first place money in the feature race and also posted the best time of the evening as he covered the distance in fifteen minutes and 64 seconds. Eddie Frize of Quincy placed second and Chet Newberry of Quincy captured third place money.

In the feature race it took three starts to get the race started due to pile ups.

Commissioner Charles Finch and his associates fulfilled their promise this year that there would be better races because of the new scoring system. Instead of having 12 winners in a race as in the past, there are only 6 winners each in the semi-feature and feature races.

Tuck Dowell of Monmouth won the semi-feature race. Shorty Hoovuer of Macomb placed second and Johnny Joy of Hannibal netted third place. Sixth place money went to Herb Clancy of Jacksonville. Winners in the consolation race were Bud Kinzel of Canton, first; Fibber McGee of Bushnell, second; Herman Hermier of Hannibal was third and Herb Clancy of Jacksonville came in fourth.

Wild Man Kelly of Macomb was the winner in the first heat. Second heat winner was Tuck Dowell of Monmouth. Johnny Joy captured top honors in the third heat.

Rusty Bell of Jerseyville grabbed first place money in the scat race. Wild Man Kelly placed second and Chet Newberry came in third.

I. C. Places 5th In Rose Tech's PCC Relays

TERRE HAUTE, Ind.—(Special)—The Rose Polytechnic cindermen, bolstered by the triple-winning efforts of their freshman ace Ned Kurtz, climaxed a hectic afternoon of "point-for-point" trading with the Principia College thinclads in a blistering 3:32.7 running of the mile relay to win by a margin of 7½ points over the Indians from Elsah, a victory that the Techmen had liberally garnished with seven first places. Aforementioned Kurtz won the broad jump handily with a leap of 21'-11" which tied the Conference record for the event held by Illinois College's Bill Horsley. The Rose Tech yearling also pocketed the century and 220-yard dashes with relative ease.

I.C.'s Ogden Munroe outclassed a field of six finalists in the 120-yard high hurdle event to win going away. Munroe flashed over the barriers in :16.4 equalling a somewhat tarnished Prairie Loop record. The Illinois College ace also finished fourth in the 220-yard lows after running in a pair of trial heats.

Two other IC mainstays, Gary Turpin and Bill Horsley, encountered an out and out "cold" afternoon in their specialties. Turpin completely surprised his teammates by failing to place in the pole vault, an event he has consistently dominated in every IC cinder session this spring. The talented freshman narrowly missed each of his three attempts at the eleven foot height. He has had no such trouble in past meets. Twice this season Turpin inked double victories in the vault and broad jump. To add insult to injury he was edged out of a possible second place in the broad jump yesterday by a scant one-quarter inch. Gieseke of Greenville College copped second with 20'-6¼". Turpin leaped 20'-6".

Although he finished fifth in the 100-yard stint, Bill Horsley never approached twenty feet in the broad jump in any of his four attempts. A most unusual predicament for Bill since he has regularly reached the twenty-one foot mark in the past.

Ed Harrell continued to better his own mark in the shot put by heaving the sphere 40'-2½", but had to settle for third.

Every member of the IC squad boasts a ribbon for his efforts yesterday and Coach Al J. Miller summed up the 1956 track and field season by indicating that the team's efforts and results throughout the season were entirely creditable and praiseworthy.

Illinois College scoring:

Shot put—Ed Harrell, 3rd (40'-2½")

100-yard dash—Bill Horsley, 5th

120-yard high hurdles—Ogden Munroe, 1st (:16.4)

220-yard low hurdles — Ogden Munroe, 4th

Broad jump—Gary Turpin, 3rd (20'-6"); Al Fisher, 4th (20'-1½"); Ron Early, 5th (19'-8½")

Discus — Farmer Housholder, 4th (108'-3¾")

Mile Relay—5th

Flaherty Earns Pole Position For 500-Miler

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Pat Flaherty, a Chicagoan out of California, Saturday won the pole position for the 500-mile auto race May 30 with a record-breaking qualifying run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where he crashed into a concrete wall in the 1953 race.

Seventeen cars earned positions in the starting lineup, and 10 of them were faster than the previous qualifying record of 142.580 miles an hour, set last year by the late Jack McGrath. Flaherty topped them with 10 miles at 145.596 in the four-cylinder John Zink Special.

Flaherty also nailed down a new one-lap record of 146.056 around the two and one-half mile track which had been speeded up by a new coat of asphalt everywhere except the traditional brick strip of the west straightaway.

McGrath had held the one-lap record at 143.793.

A crowd estimated upwards of 80,000 was the biggest ever attracted by the time trials.

Jim Rathmann of Miami, an old rival of Flaherty 10 years ago in Chicago hot rod races, held the record briefly. He started the day of roaring speed with a 10-mile run at 145.120 and best lap of 146.033.

Rathmann's brother Dick of Trenton, N.J., A noted stock car racer, returned to the speedway after a five-year absence and qualified in the day's fourth fastest time.

The 600-horsepower Novi Vespa Special, which had turned over 146 miles an hour in practice, was a disapointment in the day's gusty wind. Veteran Paul Russo of Canago Park, Calif., could make only 143.546.

Central Michigan Places First In IIAC Track Meet

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—Central Michigan College showed surprising strength in many events Saturday to pick off its second straight Interstate Conference track championship.

The host school placed in 14 of 15 events to win the title by a 20-point margin over second-place Michigan Normal.

Rangy Jim Podoley scored 17 of Central Michigan's 68½ points and was named most valuable performer in the meet for the fourth year in a row. He won the 220-yard dash and the low hurdles, placed second in the high hurdles and third in the 100-yard dash. Those were the only events in which he participated.

Eastern Illinois finished third with 31 points, Western Illinois was fourth with 24½, Northern Illinois was close behind with 23, Illinois Normal had 16¼ and Southern Illinois trailed with 13.

Despite a cross wind of 12 miles an hour, four conference records were broken.

Jim Allen of Michigan Normal tossed the shot 50 feet, 9½ inches for one mark. It shattered the record of 50-4½ set by Michigan Normal's Stan Koczman in 1951.

Wheaton Wins 10th Annual CCI Track Games

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Wheaton scored a record-breaking 108¾ points Saturday to win the 10th annual College Conference of Illinois track and field games.

North Central Illinois was second with 29½ points, followed by Carroll with 25. Other teams scoring were Augustana 21, Elmhurst 15½, Millikin 11½, Illinois Wesleyan 10 and Lake Forest 1.

Four new records were set. Wheaton's Dick Hollats set marks in the 100 and the 220 yard dashes. He ran the 100 in :09.7 and did the 220 in :22.

North Central's Ron Reichert set a new pole vault mark of 12 feet 3¾ inches, erasing the old record of 12 feet 2½ inches.

Vincent Redecke of Carroll hurled the discus 138 feet 4½ inches to wipe out the old mark of 133 feet 9 inches.

Augustana successfully defended its tennis title, edging Wheaton 17-13. Millikin had 4 points, Carroll 3, Elmhurst 3, Lake Forest 1, and Illinois Wesleyan 1.

Dick Herig led Carroll to the golf title with a total of 151 strokes. Carroll finished with 618 strokes and Lake Forest had 632. Augustana had 647, Millikin 654, Illinois Wesleyan 667, Wheaton 683 and Elmhurst 688.

Bloom Cinches Title With Mile Relay Win In Final Event Of Day

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Bloom of Chicago Heights Saturday won the state high school track championship, but the team effort was overshadowed by brilliant performances that accounted for three new records and another tied.

One of three first places taken by Bloom's Trojans was in the mile relay—last event of the program which attracted 3,026 fans at Illinois Memorial Stadium.

Bloom needed the relay victory to cinch its first title, going into the finale with 17 points to 15 for Wendell Phillips of Chicago.

The Trojans team of Chuck Collins, Nick Thomas, Bob Green and Fred Macklin, came through in the record time of 3:22.1, shattering the old mark of 3:23.3 by Lyons of LaGrange in 1953.

The triumph was good for five points, giving Bloom a winning total of 22. Phillips was third in the relay, finishing runner-up in the title bid with 18.

The crown remained in the Chicago area for the 21st straight year.

Macklin accounted for another Bloom first in the broad jump Friday with 21-8¾. The Trojans third victory was posted by LeRoy Jackson with a :09.9 clocking in the 100-yard dash.

But shading all this were the record efforts of DeKalb's Jim Bowers in the mile, Freeport's defending champion Mike Smith in the 880 and Phillips' John Lattimore in the 440. Lattimore was the meet's only double winner, also taking the 220.

Bowers, a stubby barrel-chested senior, stepped the mile in a sensational 4:20.7, obliterating the old mark of 4:23.1 by LaGrange's Warren Dreutzler in 1947 and coming within three tenths of a second of the national interscholastic standard set by Max Truex of Rawsaw, Ind., in 1954.

Bowers took the lead after 1½ laps and gradually increased it to win by 75 yards over Hinsdale's Dave Hohl. His quarter times were :65, :67, :66 and :63.7

Smith, lanky Negro senior, blazed through the 880 in 1:56.1, knocking five-tenths of a second off the mark hoisted by Ken Seiz of Quincy in 1941.

Lattimore won the 440 by eight yards over Murry Molding of New Trier in :48.8, matching the record set in 1932 by Marshall Miller of Maine (Des Plaines).

Two other performances were under record time, but were not allowed since winds up to 20 miles per hour were at the runners' backs in the straightaway races.

The recognized records at the longer distances were entered on the books because the athletes had the disadvantage as well as advantage of wind as they circled the quartermile oval.

Willie Martin of Phillips legged over the 180-yard low hurdles in :18.9 with the tailwind. He set a record last year in :19.2.

Lattimore's 220-yard dash effort was a wind-aided :20.9, one-tenth of a second under the official record.

Other winning performances: Discus—Joel Peterson, East Rockford, 157-6⅞; 120-yard high hurdles—Dick Haas, Oregon, :14.7; 880-yard relay — Blue Island, 1:30.8; Pole vault—tie between Larry Mackey, Urbana, and Jon Cada, York, 12-1; shot put—Bill Brown, Mendota, 55-1¾; high jump—Wilbur Dickson of Danville (a co-champion last year), 6-3¼.

New Trier placed third in the team title drive with 14 points, followed by Blue Island with 11, East Aurora with 10 1-5, DeKalb 9, East Rockford 8, and Glenbard and Evanston each 7.

Lopez's Homer In 9th Gives A's 5-4 Win Over Sox

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Hector Lopez brought the floundering Kansas City Athletics back into the victory column Saturday, blasting a 2-run homer with one out in the ninth off Bob Porterfield to sink the Boston Red Sox, 5-4.

A throwing error by rookie Don Buddin on Tim Thompson's grounder set the stage for Lopez' smash, his second home run in two days.

The pitching victory went to Tom Gorman, third Athletics moundsman, who hurled the last two innings.

Chisox Release Howie Pollet After 1st Start

CHICAGO (AP) —Veteran pitcher Howie Pollet was released unconditionally Saturday following his first start for the Chicago White Sox.

He was charged with the Sox' 6-4 loss to the New York Yankees.

Pollet was waived out of the National League last year and was picked up by the Sox on a look-see basis.

The release brought the Sox roster down to the legal limit of 25 players. They carried 26 players past the Wednesday deadline because of service time allowed Sammy Esposito, which expired Saturday.

Indiana Wins Twin-Bill From Illini, 13-2, 4-3

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Indiana put on a four-run rally in the final inning of the second game Saturday to edge Illinois 4-3 after routing the Illini, 13-2 in the first game of a Big Ten baseball doubleheader.

Art Herring was the Hoosier hero. Herring collected four hits in the opener and drove home the deciding run in the second game with a single off reliefer Frank Schwartz.

Dick Vorreyer had a one-hit shutout going in the second game but he hit two batters, walked one and allowed two hits to set the stage for Herring's winning blow.

Herb Score Strikesout 15 Washington Batters To Give Tribe 5-1 Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Herb Score struck out 15 Washington Nationals Saturday in pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 5-1 victory. He had a one-hitter until Roy Sievers led off the ninth inning with a smash over the left field fence.

The Indians got only two hits off four Washington hurlers, but cashed in on 11 bases on balls and two hit batsmen.

Before Score tired in the final inning, he had a chance to better his 16-strikeout high of last season and perhaps even to equal Bob Feller's modern major league record of 18. He fanned the side in the first and third innings, and got two in the second for a total of eight in the first third of the game.

With one each in the fourth and fifth, Score had 12 strikeouts after six innings, and he added one in the seventh and two in the eighth, but failed to get any in the ninth. A single by Ed Fitzgerald in the ninth and a single by Carlos Paula in the sixth were the other National hits.

Nine Indians struck out, to make the two-club total for the game a new major league record of 24, one over the old mark.

Cardinals Pound Out 18 Hits To Take 11-5 Win Over Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Stan Musial, Wally Moon and Rip Repulski spearheaded an 18-hit St. Louis attack Saturday as the Cardinals trounced the Philadelphia Phillies 11-5 and stayed hot on the heels of the Milwaukee Braves in the National League race.

The Cardinals got off to a fast start with five runs in the first inning and a parade of Philadelphia pitchers was under way. The rally featured Moon's fourth homer of the year with one on and Repulski's fifth with the bases empty.

St. Louis got two more runs in the second on a walk, two singles and a double play ball. Musial's sacrifice fly and Repulski's single scored two more in the fourth. Runs number 10 and 11 came over in the sixth on a four-hit rally.

Richie Ashburn's single and Del Ennis's fourth homer scored a pair of Philadelphia runs in the first. A walk, passed ball and Jim Blaylock's single brought home another in the third and the Phils ran their total to five in the fourth on three hits, including an Ashburn double, and Blaylock's sacrifice fly.

Yankees Roll To 5th Triumph Over Chisox With 6-4 Decision

By JOE MOOSHIL

CHICAGO (AP) — The New York Yankees rolled to their fifth triumph over the Chicago White Sox with a 6-4 decision Saturday.

Bullet Bob Turley, who had a 7-1 record at this time last year, gained his initial triumph of the season against two losses but needed help from reliefer Tom Morgan who put down Chicago's final threat in the seventh inning.

Turley was sailing along with a 6-2 lead and had 10 strikeouts to his credit when the Sox nicked him for four straight hits and two runs in the seventh, bringing on Morgan.

With two runs in, two on and only one out, Morgan retired the next two batters.

The Yankees greeted veteran southpaw Howie Pollet, making his initial start as an American leaguer, roughly. Singles by Hank Bauer and Bill Martin, a ground out and a wild pitch gave the league leaders a run in the first.

The Yanks knocked him out of the box in the third when they broke loose with four runs.

Bauer drew a walk to open the third and Martin was safe when shortstop Luis Aparicio booted his grounder. Mickey Mantle fouled out but Yogi Berra singled to score Bauer. Bill Skowron singled to score Martin and Gil McDougald walked, filling the bases.

Mike Fornieles then took over for Pollet and Elston Howard came through with a two-run single.

The Sox finally gave the crowd of 17,294 something to cheer about in the fourth. Fox opened with a walk and Turley hit Minnie Minoso with a pitched ball. George Kell bounced into a double play but Bob Nieman's single scored Fox. Sherm Lollar followed with a double but Turley fanned Ron Jackson to end the inning.

Singles by Phil Rizzuto and Martin gave the Yankees another run in the sixth. The Sox had Turley on the ropes in the sixth on singles by Kell, Lollar and Jackson, good for one run, but he fanned pinch batter Jim Delsing with two on to end the threat.

Wininger Has 2 Stroke Lead In Kansas City Open

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Although his margin was shaved to two strokes, Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City still is the man the field is chasing in the $22,000 Kansas City Open Golf tournament.

Wininger was under par for the third straight day with a 70 to make his total 203, two strokes better than Dow Finsterwald of Bedford Heights, Ohio.

In third place, one stroke behind Finsterwald, were Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Texas; Bob Rosburg, San Francisco, and Wally Ulrich, Rochester, Minn., at 206.

Nashua Races To New High Money Record With Win At Camden

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP) — Nashua, the horse with the golden hooves, guided by Eddie Arcaro, the jockey with the Midas touch, raced to a new all-time money winning record for a race horse Saturday by winning the $30,000 Camden Handicap at Garden State Park.

The big, brown four-year-old colt thundered over the mile and a furlong Camden distance to whip four rivals and earn $22,750, which increased his lifetime earnings to $1,100,365, erasing the six-year-old record of $1,085,760

Cinncinnati Moves Into Third Place With 10-5 Victory Over Brooks

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs hammered Dodger ace Don Newcombe and his successors for 14 hits, including homers by Joe Frazier, Johnny Temple and Smoky Burgess, to flatten Brooklyn, 10-5, Saturday. The victory sent the Redlegs into third place ahead of the Dodgers.

Despite their show of power, the Redlegs again had to call on relief artist Hershell Freeman to seal the verdict. The husky righthander, who stopped the Brooks in the 10th inning Friday night, doused a blaze in the sixth and kept the Brooks in check the rest of the way.

The Dodgers, trailing 9-1 entering the sixth had scored three runs and loaded the bases with one out when Freeman was summoned. He ended the threat by getting Carl Furillo to hit into a double play.

The victory was credited to Johnny Klippstein (3-2), the latest Dodger nemesis, who went out in the sixth after being clipped for four straight singles.

Newcombe, who held a 16-4 record against Cincinnati, was treated like a stepchild by the Redlegs. They got to him for three runs in the first, two of them on Ray Jablonski's double, and three more in the third on Frazier's homer and a two-run double by Burgess.

In the fifth, Johnny Temple hit a three-run homer off Chuck Templeton. Burgess homered in the seventh for the tenth marker.

Jackie Robinson's third homer in the second inning and Peewee Reese's single scoring Don Zimmer from second in the ninth produced the other Dodger runs.

Giant's Prexy May Shift Club To Minneapolis

NEW YORK (AP) — President Horace Stoneham of the New York Giants today admitted that he has been thinking for more than a year about shifting the National League club to Minneapolis. At the same time he said he was interested in New York City's plans for erecting a huge stadium on Manhattan's West Side which would house the Giants.

"We've been thinking of that (moving to Minneapolis) for a year and a half and I thought everybody knew it," Stoneham said in an interview with baseball writer Barney Kremenko of the Journal-American. "It's no secret."

There has been much speculation over a possible Giants shift to Minneapolis, where the club owns the American Assn. franchise, but not until now has Stoneham personally conceded that such a move was being contemplated, said Kremenko.

Stoneham will meet with Mayor Robert F. Wagner and other city officials Thursday to discuss the new stadium. Plans are to build a sports and television center with a stadium seating more than 100,000.

"When I attend the meeting with Mayor Wagner next Thursday, I will walk into the conference room with a completely open mind," Stoneham said. "I am studying all angles and if and when I move, I will do what is best for my ball club."

The club's lease on the Polo Grounds expires in April 1962. Steadily decreasing attendances at the Polo Grounds as well as the fact that the expiration date of the lease is nearing, has prompted the Giants to look elsewhere for their future home. There is also a rumor that the Giants may move across the river and play their games in Yankee Stadium, home of the New York Yankees.

One big factor that would make Stoneham hesitate about transferring out of New York is the club's lucrative radio-television contract. The Giants reportedly receive about $500,000 a year for the air rights of their games.

Pittsburgh Shellacks Chicago Cubs 7-4; Long And Walls Hit Homers

PITTSBURGH (AP — Lee Walls and Dale Long each blasted two-run homers Saturday as the Pittsburgh Pirates shellacked the Chicago Cubs 7-4 with a 13-hit attack.

Sam Jones, who pitched a no-hitter against the Pirates on May 12 last year, was the victim of Walls' blow which cleared the left field fence in the first inning. It was his second of the year.

Long's round-tripper, his seventh of the season, soared into the upper deck of the right field stands in the eighth inning.

Long, who also socked a double, led the Pirate attack with four runs batted in. Bill Virdon, who came to the Pirates earlier this week in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals, pounded out two doubles.

Nelson King was credited with the victory even though he had to be yanked from the mound in the ninth inning when the Cubs staged a rally and scored a run on three straight singles. But King's relief, Elroy Face, made Walt Moryn hit into a double play to end the threat.

Arlington Wins State Golf Meet At Champaign

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Arlington Heights rallied to defeat Peoria Central for the state high school golf title Saturday and assured a sweep of championships for Chicago area schools in the annual prep sports jamboree.

Bloom of Chicago Heights took the track crown and Hinsdale won tennis honors.

Arlington Heights' foursome trailed Central by a total of four strokes entering Saturday's final round of the 36-hole meet. The Arlington team outscored Central by 17 strokes on the last 18 this windblown afternoon.

Arlington's 36-hole four - man total was 633, while Central collected 646, followed by Glenbard with 651, Morgan Park of Chicago 654 and New Trier of Winnetka, the defending champion, with 663.

Bill Barnett of West Frankfort won the individual championship, adding a 79 to his opening 71 of Friday for 150 — six strokes over par for the University of Illinois course.

Second place went to Emil Esposito, son of a professional from Leyden of Franklin Park, in a playoff with the son of another pro, Bob Kletcke of Morgan Park, Chicago. They tied at 151 with identical 76-75 rounds and it finally took an extra 12 holes to settle it. Esposit parred the 12th in four, while Kletcke took five.

Baltimore Pecks Away To Defeat Detroit 5-4

DETROIT (AP)— The Baltimore Orioles, trailing 3-0 because of their own mistakes, took advantage of Detroit errors and got hitless relief pitching for five innings from Ray Moore for a 5-4 triumph over the Tigers Saturday.

Moore took over for starter Bill Wight with one out in the third. He pitched hitless ball until he was yanked in favor of George Zuverink with one away in the eighth after he walked Bob Kennedy.

The game was one of the most sloppily - played contests of the season. Baltimore was guilty of five errors and Detroit committed three. And most of them had a part in the scoring.

Baltimore made three bobbles in the first two innings, and Detroit took a 3-0 lead behind righthander Duke Maas.

But the Orioles pecked away with single runs in the third, fourth and fifth to tie it up, and went ahead in the seventh on singles by Hal Smith and Bob Hale sandwiched around Willie Miranda's sacrifice. Each team scored once in the eighth, the Orioles off reliefer Al Aber and Detroit off Zuverink.

SOMETIMES YOU DO

Bill Goodin, Pittsfield's third sacker proves sometimes you can knock the ball out of the catcher's hands and this is exactly what he did Friday in the finals of the district at Pittsfield.

Pitcher Larry Scott was taking his signal for a pitch when all of a sudden, Goodin broke for home from third base. Scott charged off the mound and heaved the sphere to Jack Fairfield but Fairfield dropped the ball as Goodin's left foot freed the ball from the catcher's glove. (Note ball just above the catchers left foot). To the right of the picture are umpire Glenn Willard and Saukee catcher David Ruble.

AND SOMETIMES YOU DON'T

Jerry Brant's onward charge of home plate was foiled as JHS catcher Jack Fairfield was waiting with the ball and it would have taken a charge of dynamite to have pried the ball out of Fairfield's mitt. However with two outs and the count, one ball and two strikes on batter Bill Goodin, standing to the left of the picture, umpire Glenn Willard's right arm coming down indicates the call on the pitch to the plate. The pitch was a called strike three for the third out and Brant and Fairfield's battle at home plate was just an excuse for the bitter rivalry that exists between the two schools.

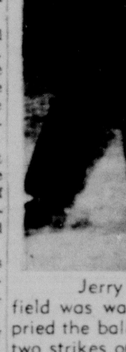

Saukees Score Two In 15th Inning To Beat Jacks; Scott Fans 22

PITTSFIELD — (Special) — Centerfielder Jerry Brant doubled in the top of the 15th inning with two mates on base to hand coach Bob Kraushaar's JHS Crimsons a 3-1 setback in the finals of Pittsfield's district tournament here yesterday.

Brant's poke sailed over Barry Heaton's head in left field to break a 1-1 deadlock and the win gave the Saukees their third straight win of the season over the Crimsons and Larry Scott.

Scott Whiffs 22

For Larry Scott, who pitched himself a whale of a ball game in the finals here, allowed Pittsfield four hits and struck-out 22 batters in 14 and 2/3 innings of toil on the mound for the Jacks. Scott's fast ball and curve were working beautifully and at one time Larry fanned 11 Saukees in a row. The loss was disheartening for Scott, making his third appearance against the Saukees this season as Larry has limited Pittsfield to a paltry six hits in two games. These six hits off Scott came in 21 and a half innings of mound duty.

Scott

Petty Fans 18

Tom Petty also had himself a field day as he recorded 18 strikeouts in 10 innings of work. Coach Mel Kuethe didn't want to take a chance on an injury of Petty's arm in the extra-inning game and Bill Ferguson took over the hurling duties for the Saukees in the 11th frame and allowed three hits and no runs.

Petty handcuffed the Crimsons with his blazing fast ball and baffling change of pace to allow JHS only one hit, and an unearned run. The only hit off Petty was an infield single by Bill Lewis in the fourth inning. Merritt Norvell didn't receive credit for a hit although he got one in the fifth inning. Norvell got good wood on one of Petty's offerings and lined it into rightfield but Marion Bagent fielded the sphere on one hop and fired it to first base to get Norvell out by a step.

Pittsfield scored first on an error by catcher Jack Fairfield in the initial frame to take a 1-0 lead. Goodin led things off for the Saukees with a base hit, Sanderson walked and both runners advanced one base on a double steal. Scott fanned Plattner and Ruble and while Scott was taking signal to pitch to Ruble, the next batter, Goodin broke for home. Scott stepped off the rubber and threw a perfect strike to Fairfield and Goodin would of been out a mile but he knocked the ball out of Fairfield's hand and that's the way the score stood for six innings.

The Crimsons scored one in the bottom of the sixth to tie the game up and this run was unearned also. Hazelrigg walked to open the sixth, Nunn and Scott struck out and Petty also set Fairfield down via the strikeout route but the ball bounded off David Ruble's shin guard, which rolled a few feet from home plate and when Ruble tried to throw Fairfield out at first, his throw sailed into right field and Hazelrigg scored from first.

Then for eight straight innings, Larry Scott blanked the Saukees as he struckout the side several times and coasted along smoothly until the 15th inning. Scott walked Tom Plattner, struck out Ruble and then Vannatta lined a shot into right field and Plattner went to third when Danny Woodward hesitated with his throw to third. Jerry Brant, the next batter took the first pitch and Vannatta advanced to second. Plattner holding third. On the next pitch, Brant sent a towering drive that went over Heaton's head in deep left to score two runs and Brant was cut down at third when he attempted the extra-base. Fairfield to Nunn. Coach Kraushaar replaced the tiring Scott with Bill Lewis on the mound and Tom Ferguson singled off Lewis but then he struckout Curry to end the Saukee 15th.

Ferguson held JHS scoreless in the bottom of the 15th, three up, three down.

The three hour-forty minute game was well played on the part of both teams. Defensive stars in the game were Gary Little with three nice catches in left field, Bill Lewis who went deep in the hole at short to throw out several men and Khoy Sanderson, who killed a JHS rally in the 13th inning as he stabbed Barry Heaton's low line drive to double Danny Woodward at first base. And, of course, the pitchers, Larry Scott, Tom Petty, Bill Ferguson and Bill Lewis fit into this category as all four hurlers accounted for 44 strikeouts, Scott with 22, Petty with 18, Ferguson with 3 and Lewis with 1.

Cards Inability To Hit Lefties Shows Up Friday

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A flaring weakness of the 1955 St. Louis Cardinals—inability to hit lefthanders—has once again made itself apparent.

The Cardinals this year had been beating the lefties with ease until Friday night when Curt Simmons became the first southpaw to go all the way against the Redbirds this season and win.

His three-hitter at Philadelphia gave the Phils a 4-2 verdict and marked the first time since July 20, 1955, that Simmons had pitched a complete game and come out the victor.

The only other lefthander to go all the way against the Cards this season is Joe Nuxhall, who lost to them at Cincinnati opening day. Only other lefthanders credited with victories over the Cards this year are Lou Sleater of Milwaukee and Ken Lehman of Brooklyn, both in relief.

Willard Schmidt, who started and lost, permitted only one scratch hit until the seventh. Then he yielded a walk to Marv Blaylock, a double to Del Ennis and served up a home-run ball to Stan Lopata.

The Cardinals took the lead in the fifth when Wally Moon singled and got home on a double by newcomer, Bobby Del Greco. Stan Musial tripled in the seventh and scored on Rip Repulski's grounder.

Fabius Captures 80th Running Of Preakness With Terrific Finish

By JOHN CHANDLER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Fabius, speedy son of the great Citation, upset the applecart for Kentucky Derby winner Needles and captured the 80th running of the Preakness Saturday in a terrific finish that had the customers all but jumping out of the ancient Pimlico stands.

Maryland's most famous horse race again was the throne room for the famous Calumet Farm. It proved the graveyard for the triple crown hopes of the Florida-bred Needles, who two weeks ago put on his characteristic stretch rush to defeat Fabius in the Derby by threequarters of a length.

This was the fifth Preakness for the Calumet Farm and the first for that noted Kentucky breeding establishment since poppa Citation led the way home eight years ago.

Fabius, smartly ridden by Willie (Hatrack) Hartack, 1955 champion jockey, took the lead with about a half-mile to go, and stayed on the front end to the finish of the mile and three-sixteenths classic.

Dave Erb, who had ridden Needles to victory in three other $100,000 added races this year and had beaten Fabius each time, couldn't get the D&H Stables' pride and joy into the winner's circle this time.

The margin for the winner was a length and three-quarters, while Needles finished a length ahead of W. E. Britt's No Regrets, third horse in the 9-horse field.

The time on a fast track was 1:58 2-5, bettering the time of Citation, who required 2:02 2-5 on a heavy track. Last year Nashua set the track and Preakness record of 1:54 3-5.

For Needles, it was a Preakness disappointment just like that of his daddy, Ponder, who won the Kentucky Derby from Capot, but finished fifth at Pimlico as Capot won the black-eyed susans for Greentree Stable. Ironically, it was Calumet Farm which owned Ponder.

Fabius, second choice in the betting, paid $7.00, $2.40 and $2.40, while Needles, who was 3-5 on the tote board, paid the legal minimum of $2.20 to place and the same to show. No Regrets, who won the California Derby and was seventh in the Kentucky version May 5, paid $5.60 to show.

The weather was beautiful, sunny and warm for the crowd of 29,774, but the result wasn't what the majority wanted. Needles seemed a cinch to grab the Preakness, then go to New York to try for a triple crown grand slam sweep of the 3-year-old classics in the $100,000-added Belmont June 16.

One thing is certain, however, that should be a killer-diller rubber match between the pair.

Needles, as usual, trailed his field, but everyone waited expectantly, for they recalled how he came from some 15 lengths off the Derby pace to win going away from Fabius.

But he didn't have that old hypodermic jolt this time, as Fabius took charge going into the final bend, and barged home to grab off $84,250 of the big $132,800 pot.

Golf Ace managed to hang on for fourth, followed by Dino Lozzi's Count Chic, Eiffel Blue, Mrs. Helen Kellogg's Come On Red, and Ratheram and Fleet Peet, both owned by H. C. Fruehauf.

Lew Burdette Pitches Braves To 3-2 Victory Over New York Giants

NEW YORK (AP)—Righthander Lew Burdette muffled the Giants' power with a nifty four-hitter and Del Crandall smashed two solo home runs Saturday to pace Milwaukee's league - leading Braves to a 3-2 victory over the slipping New York Giants.

The rangy, 29-year old Burdette had a two-hit shutout going into the last inning when he weakened. Alvin Dark's leadoff single and Willie Mays' triple with one out produced the first run. Hank Thompson scored Mays on a ground out to first but Burdette then closed out the suddenly tense contest by getting Daryl Spencer on a fly to Hank Aaron in right.

Up until the final frame, the Giants, who had their lineup shaken up in an attempt to get more punch, couldn't do a thing against the slants served up by Burdette.

Not a Giant reached second until the ninth.

Crandall's sixth inning homer off starter and loser Al Worthington proved to be the clincher. The catcher also had homered in the fourth.

U. K. Campbell has come back to Jacksonville!

The first time he visited this city was in 1881, when he trudged along at the side of a covered wagon as his family "moved" from Ohio to Missouri.

He was a youth of 21. The world was before him.

Today, at the venerable age of 96, he is resting and enjoying life at the Illinois Christian Home, 873 Grove street, where he went to reside on April 15.

Some days he is up and about his room, sitting in a comfortable chair and chatting with callers. Other days he remains in bed, for a man of his years shouldn't hold himself to an inflexible schedule.

U. K. CAMPBELL

He remembers his first visit to Jacksonville vividly. Although it was three-quarters of a century ago, when people still relied chiefly on horses, buggies and wagons to get around, he brings back through the misty years a clear picture of that day. His memory of other incidents of a six weeks journey from Ohio to Cameron, Mo., is equally keen.

Flee Missouri In War Time

"My father was a Union man and the Rebels ran us out of Missouri," Mr. Campbell explained. Like many other Union sympathizers at the outbreak of the Civil War, the Campbell family headed for more friendly surroundings.

They lived for the next 20 years at Wilmington, Ohio. By that time the war was over and troubled conditions brought on by guerrilla warfare had quieted. So the family again crowded into a covered wagon and headed west.

Twenty-five miles each day was god traveling in those days. The family stopped on the outskirts of towns along the day. All but two of the family would get rooms at some home. The other two would remain with the wagon and horses.

When the slow-moving wagon reached Jacksonville, Mr. Campbell recalled the other day, he and his sister walked at the side and behind the wagon entirely through the town. He remembers that he rolled up his trousers legs, probably because of deep dust.

There were no "hard roads," no route signs, or other aids for travelers. The highways were well traveled, but wagoning from state-to-state was slow business.

Entertain Travelers

Campbell and one of his sisters formed a duet to entertain the travelers at their various stops. His sister strummed the guitar and Campbell did the singing.

"We paid our way at those road stops, too," Mr. Campbell reminisced.

A broom manufacturer by trade, Mr. Campbell retired at the age of 84. He will be 97 on Sept. 18.

The family home was always in the vicinity of Cameron, Mo., with exception of the 20 years spent in Ohio.

Just a few years ago Mr. Campbell decided to take a swing around the country and visit relatives. He traveled through 10 states, sometimes going 500 miles in one day by automobile—a far cry from the six weeks from Ohio to Missouri by wagon. He also has flown several times.

Garfield To Eisenhower

The first president the 96 year old patriarch voted for was James A. Garfield. In 1952 Mr. Campbell visited the polls and cast his ballot for President Eisenhower.

Looking forward to next November when President Ike is again expected to be one of the two finalists, Mr. Campbell said "I would like to vote for him again, sometime. But I don't know whether I will get to the voting place this election." He made the statement with a sly twinkle in his eyes.

Church Member 75 Years

A devout man, with friendliness etched on his kind old face, Mr. Campbell has been a member of the Disciples of Christ 75 years.

His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell, died five years ago. Since that time he made his home with a daughter, Mrs. Harold Bangs of Galesburg, Ill., until he became a guest of the Illinois Christian Home in this city, where more than 60 elderly men and women reside in comfortable, homelike surroundings, with expert nursing and medical care.

He has five children, Merritt Campbell, Quincy, Calif., Rev. Dyre Campbell, pastor of the Phillips University Church, Enid, Okla., Mrs. Estill Witt, Cameron, Mo., Mrs. Harold Bangs, Galesburg, Ill., and Miss Alice Campbell, a teacher in Topeka, Kansas.

Mr. Campbell was one of a family of 10 children. He has one living sister, Mrs. Chinkie Williams, Lake Charles, La.

When a person approaches 97, his mind is well stocked with memories. Mr. Campbell, as he reads, visits with friends, or just sits contentedly thinking of the past, has a vast storehouse of experiences from which to draw.

Three Residents Of Beardstown Hurt In Wreck

JERSEYVILLE — Three residents of the Beardstown vicinity were brought to the Jersey Community hospital suffering from injuries sustained in the New Delhi vicinity, south of Jerseyville on Route 67A when the car in which they were riding figured in a collision with a truck from the St. Louis vicinity.

The injured brought to the local hospital are Clarence Trotter, his wife Mrs. Myrtle Trotter and Lester Jones of Beardstown.

According to Sheriff Herman C. Kirchner, who was called to the accident scene, the collision occurred when Clarence Trotter, who was driving a Dodge sedan, swerved to miss striking a farm tractor which was traveling on the pavement in a southerly direction.

A truck coming from the south arrived at the same point about the same time. The driver of the truck swerved his vehicle to the east shoulder of the pavement and prevented a head on collision with the Trotter car. Sheriff Kirchner reported, and the resulting impact was in the nature of a sideswiping of the Dodge and truck.

State police officers Wilson Schultz and Everett Estes of Jerseyville arrived at the accident scene and took over the handling of traffic and removal of vehicles from the scene.

The injured were brought to the Jersey Community hospital in Jacoby Brothers ambulance. The Trotter car was towed to the lot of the Jerseyville Motor Co.

Five Cars Damaged In Accident Near Square

Five cars sustained damage about 4:58 p.m. Saturday in an unusual accident at the intersection of West State street and the public square. No persons were injured.

Police said the chain of collisions began when Mrs. Dora Evans Sargent, 75, of 503 South Clay avenue, decided to move a 1955 Ford sedan, in which she was waiting for her daughter, a foot or two farther away from a 1953 Buick sedan parked in front.

The Ford was parked in the space nearest the square on the north side of State street.

Mrs. Sargent, sitting in the right-hand front seat of the Ford, started the engine, shifted into reverse and touched the accelerator.

The Ford shot backward into the line of traffic on the square, striking a 1953 Chevrolet sedan driven by Mrs. Hazel C. Ash, 46, of 1213 West State street. The right side and front of the Chevrolet were damaged.

Then Mrs. Sargent shifted into "drive" and again touched the gas pedal. The Ford came forward, striking the Buick.

The impact drove the Buick forward and into the westbound traffic lane on State street, where it struck a 1955 Chevrolet convertible driven by Robert M. Farmer, 30, of 816 West State street. The convertible was damaged in the left front, the Buick front and rear.

The Ford also swerved into the line of traffic on State street and crashed into a 1947 Studebaker driven by Grafton K. Mintz of 1209 West State street. The left rear of the Studebaker was smashed; the Ford wound up with heavy damage to both front and rear.

The Ford, the Buick and Mrs. Ash's Chevrolet were towed away; the Studebaker and the Chevrolet convertible were able to leave the scene under their own power.

Mrs. Sargent was issued a ticket for driving without a valid operator's license.

Patrolmen Stafford, Brune, Blakeman and Smith directed traffic at the scene of the crash.

J. Merle Wade Buys High School House On Bid Of $25,650

J. Merle Wade, assistant superintendent of Jacksonville School District 117, was purchaser of the new seven room ranch type house built by the Jacksonville High school building trades class, at an auction yesterday afternoon. His bid of $25,650 was the successful one, after a half hour climb from the starting figure of $20,000.

A crowd of 200 attended the auction at the beautiful new house, located on a large lot at 522 Woodland avenue.

Several prospective purchasers joined the bidding at various stages as the price moved upward, sometimes $100 at a time. On other occasions the bid was raised $50 at each hitch, and sometimes $10.

This was the ninth home built and sold by the building trades class of the high school, under supervision of Elbert A. Lair, instructor, and John May, vocational supervisor. Last year the house built directly north of the new project house sold for $24,300.

In the bidding yesterday Assistant Supt. Wade, who now resides on West Walnut street, was represented by J. Harry Dowland.

The new home has many attractive features and built in conveniences. Hundreds of persons visited the property during three days of open house.

Principal John Agger addressed the crowd before the auction, declaring that each year the building trades class strives to build a better house than the year before. Agger introduced Elbert A. Lair, instructor, whose text books on building are sold throughout the nation; John May, vocational instructor, and members of the class who built the spacious home.

Principal Agger announced that Elmer and Alvin Middendorf have donated their services as auctioneers of all nine houses erected by the building trades class. "Over a period of years their services have been a most valuable contribution to these projects," the principal stated.

Hagen Circus Will Play Here Tomorrow

Clowns fill the same place in a circus program as cartoons and comic strips in a newspaper. Clowns and comic artists do, in fact use much the same technique.

The similarity is explained by Speed Hart, producing clown with the Hagen Bros. 3-ring Circus which plays in Jacksonville Monday, May 21, under the sponsorship of the American Legion. The circus is due to arrive today at the Hempel show grounds on East Walnut street, traveling by truck.

"Like the cartoonist," says Mr. Hart, "the circus clown must express his idea in the simplest terms possible, so that the spectator will 'see the point' at a fleeting glance. The fewer the words the better. The clown of today must be a master of pantomime, most difficult of all the expressive arts.

SPEEDY HART

"The circus clown, like the cartoonist, draws his ideas from current events and from the amusing foibles of human nature. He resorts to the same means as the caricaturist; he exaggerates and distorts but does it with skill that permits that which is depicted to be recognizable at once."

Mr. Hart received a letter last winter from a middle western lad seeking a job as a clown. The boy was sure he would make good because, he wrote, he was "always acting crazy and making my friends laugh." Mr. Hart's reply was kindly but not encouraging. He explained that "acting crazy" might be amusing to one's friends but utterly pointless to strangers. Clowning, he told the ambitious young man, is an art far removed from merely "acting the fool."

Clowns must have ingenuity and originality, because they they must create their own gags." And, like fingerprints, no two clowns are ever alike. It would be an unpardonable breach of ethics for one to copy another's makeup.

Changes In '56 Corn Program Explained

The 1956 corn program will have two important changes affecting eligibility for price support, according to Charles R. Gibson, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

"In the first place," the chairman said, "there will be no aggregate compliance— the corn acreage on each farm will be considered separately in determining compliance with the farm corn acreage allotment as a condition of price-support eligibility."

"And, in the second place," Mr. Gibson added, "price supports will be available to producers in commercial area counties who are determined to have exceeded their corn acreage allotments, but the rate will be five-sixths of the county rate to producers who comply with their corn allotments. All Illinois counties are in the commercial corn area."

Mr. Gibson explained that this latter provision applies also to producers who grow corn on farms inside the commercial corn area which have no corn allotments. In such an instance, the farm is considered to have an allotment of zero acres, and any corn acreage on the farm is therefore in excess of the farm allotment.

Provision of the 1956 corn program which are similar to those under the 1955 program include: The opportunity for producers with excess corn acreage to adjust their acreage to the corn allotment for the farm within a specified time limit, price-support loans at a relatively higher rate to producers on farms where the corn acreage is determined to be within the corn acreage allotment for the farm, loans to producers who unknowingly harvest in excess of the allotment, and the right to appeal.

The rate of support on corn in commercial area counties which is produced on farms in compliance with their acreage allotments will be a minimum national average of $1.50 per bushel, but not less than 82½ percent of parity at the beginning of the 1956-57 marketing year, next October 1.

The national average rate of support on corn in commercial area counties which is produced on farms not in compliance with the farm acreage allotments is $1.25 per bushel, but not less than 70 percent of parity at the beginning of the marketing year. The rate of support to noncooperators thus will be about five-sixths, or 83.3 percent of the local rate to cooperators. This means that there will not always be the same difference in cents between the local rates for cooperators and noncooperators, since the $1.50 and $1.25 rates are national averages.

Calf Crop—1957

Oakley Robinson, cattle herdsman, reports that he is getting a start on the 1957 calf crop. On May 4 Oakley started moving the bulls onto the breeding pastures. That will mean February calves on the ground and ready to grow on early fescue next spring. Oakley wants his calf crop well grouped, so he leaves the bulls with the herd only 65 to 70 days, and not the year round.

Bloat on Pastures

Good rainfall and warm, growth-pushing days during May mean that bloat will be a problem on some clover pastures. We have not eliminated bloat losses here on the Station, but we have checked them to the point of tolerance. Here are some of the ways we do that: First, we seed and manage pastures to maintain a balance of grasses and legumes. Bloat is less likely to occur with a good stand of grass in the mixture. Eight to 10 pounds of fall-seeded grass usually gets a good start to insure a grass stand. Then we broadcast 10 to 15 pounds of clovers and lespedeza in the spring on the new grass. We believe it is a mistake to clip the pastures when we get plenty of rain and good growing conditions for Ladino clover. Clipping cuts down the mature grass, which later goes into summer dormancy and does not recover to furnish enough grass for the mixed pasture in the fall.

Keep shade, salt and fresh water available close by to help against bloat. If the animals have to go too far to get these things they will be away from the pasture too long. They will be so hungry when they return to grazing that they will tend to overeat and bloat. This is why we warn against turning a hungry animal onto a clover pasture. It is also why we suggest that, once the appetites of livestock are adjusted to a pasture, you leave them on night and day.

Greatest damage from bloat can come from unscheduled moving of your livestock on and off pasture depending upon rainfall, dew or your own uneasiness. However, you should always be on the lookout for bloat cases. Prompt treatment may save an animal or more.

Strong, Long-Living Grasses

Fescue, brome and bluegrass are strong competitors under grazing. These grasses seeded in 1947 with clovers on experimental pastures on the Station had increased in stand several fold by 1955. In the fall of 1948 fescue covered 15% of the ground area but had increased to 62% by 1953. Brome increased from 3% to 36% of the ground cover, and bluegrass moved up from 15 to 61%. Redtop and timothy in a mixture had completely disappeared by 1955. Orchard grass increased slightly from a stand of 16 to 22% of the ground cover by 1955.

Sheep and cattle gains on the best fields were similar, with a fescue field averaging 305 pounds of animal gain an acre annually; brome, 295 pounds; orchard, 282 pounds; and bluegrass, 276 pounds. The first four years these grasses were in a clover mixture and the last three years after the clover was gone, they were nitrated.

BEAN MARKET REVIEWED

PRICE FACTORS LISTED

A farmer friend asks some interesting questions about the soybean market. "How come," he writes, "the University 'experts' did not tell us that soybean prices would go to $3.00? And why did the bean mills slow down, saying that they were losing money, when beans were $2.25, but operated at full speed when the price went up to $2.50 and $3.00?"

A lot of things happened during the past year or so to affect soybean prices. Each new development changed price prospects.

The 1953 crop was small. Prices of soybeans, oil and meal went up. The 1954 crop was a record-breaker, but prices tended to remain high, blocking needed increases in sales at home and abroad. It appeared that the carryover of old beans would be around 30 million bushels, several times the normal amount.

Then farmers boosted their planting of soybeans. Growing conditions were very good during the early part of the 1955 season. Continued good weather would have made a crop of 400 million bushels. This, with a carryover of 30 million would have made a total supply of 430 million, or one-fourth more than the previous record supply of the year before.

A huge production of cotton seed, which competes with soybeans, was also in prospect, and official estimates were raised month after month all through the season. This prospect offset the first reports of deterioration of the soybean crop.

Later these four developments lifted prices of soybeans:

1. 1955 soybean production, at 372 million bushels, though 9 percent greater than the record 1954 crop, fell below earlier prospects.

2. Production of olive oil in the Mediterranean area fell one-third below the 1953 level, and this reduction increased the foreign demand for soybean oil and soybeans.

3. Our government moved to boost exports. The CCC sold the 1954 crop beans that it had taken over under price support loans. About 700 million pounds of soybean and cottonseed oils were sold under Public Law 480. An additional 65 million pounds were sold under ICA agreements.

4. Finally, rising prices have brought on an unusual amount of bullish speculation.

The price of soybean oil has gone up from 10 and 11 cents a pound last fall to around 16 cents recently. This price increase has added 55 to 60 cents a bushel to the value of soybeans.

The price of soybean meal, after sagging most of the season, has advanced more than $10 a ton. The higher value for meal has added another 30 cents to bean values.

Buyers of soybean oil and meal are not final consumers. The oil is manufactured into margarine and shortening. Thus prices of the oil can change considerably without immediately affecting the rate of consumption. Soybean meal follows an even more round about path to final consumers. It is mixed with other feed ingredients and sold under many brand names. The final consumer products are meats, dairy products and eggs. And prices of the soybean meal can fluctuate widely without having large immediate effects upon consumption. These peculiarities of the soybean market make it subject to unusual price variations.

Soybean stocks on April 1 totaled 176 million bushels, the same as the record stocks of a year before. Farmers held fewer beans, but others had more. Looking further ahead, another large crop of soybeans is likely this fall, though not necessarily larger than last year. Production of cottonseed may be reduced from the 1955 level. But a combination of price-raising forces such as lifted prices this year are not likely to occur in the year ahead.

Home Advisers In State Name 56-57 Officers

URBANA—Marjorie Jean Tabor, Belleville, is the newly elected president of the Illinois Home Advisers' Association.

Mary Husted, Monmouth, has been named secretary and Mrs. Grace Wepner, Havana, second vice-president of the association. Anna Betty Huck, Mt. Vernon, and Mrs. Elaine Wendler, Edwardsville, will continue to serve as first vice-president and treasurer during the 1956-57 year.

The new officers were elected at the spring meeting of their association, held in connection with the home economics extension conference.

One hundred fifteen home advisors and assistants attended the spring conference on the University of Illinois campus. The meeting was keyed to new developments in the fields of clothing and textiles and home furnishings. Also included were tips on preparing for a fashion revue, considerations in buying floor coverings, an insight into understanding one's self and others and a report of the national research committee in home economics.

Home advisers and their assistants work with homemakers in 101 Illinois counties and are responsible for the home economics extension work carried on in the state.

Keep nitrate fertilizers out of reach of your stock, says a University of Illinois veterinarian, as they may mistake it for salt and be poisoned if they eat it.

The world's largest fire engine factory, as you might imagine, uses a lot of red paint. About 6,000 gallons of it are delivered every year to the American LaFrance Co. at Elmira, N. Y. which must be a wonderful place for goggle-eyed boys. It's the factory that turns out almost half the 1,200 fire engines made in the United States every year.
Red is the most popular color for fire engines, of course, but a lot of other shades are used too, for cities that want something different. White is the second most popular color, then green. LaFrance has also made fire trucks in black, blue, chocolate and elegant gold. And there was one famous truck, they tell me that was a shocking shade of lilac.
How fast can a fire engine go? Well, the big 275 horse-power, 12 cylinder LaFrance aerial ladder truck will pull it's tremendous load at 92 miles an hour. Most newer models, however, have a governor on them limiting speed to 65.
Fire engines, as you can see from almost any fire department, are durable pieces of machinery. LaFrance estimates that at least 15,000 of it's 20,000 motor-driven fire trucks are still in use. It made it's first gasoline fire truck in 1910 and it's still in service.
They are hardy machines, fire engines, and the most important reason is the constant and careful servicing they receive. That gives a clue to used car buying, for the best used cars around here, bar none, are the well-groomed cars that were bought from us new, serviced by our factory-trained mechanics and now are displayed on our used car lot.
The dream car on our lot this week is a 1954 Windsor Deluxe with less than 20,000 miles, previously owned by Bill Imboden of the Illinois Steel Bridge Co. We've been trading with Bill for the past twenty-five years and know what fine care all of his cars get. If you have been looking for a quality car in mint condition, this is it.

Avoiding A Proxy War

Strong pressures have been put upon the Eisenhower administration to give arms to Israel in the bitter Middle Eastern dispute with the Arab countries. Yet this government has stubbornly resisted those urgings.

One of the principal reasons why has now been carefully expounded by Secretary of State Dulles.

We are trying to avoid the kind of "war by proxy" with the Soviet Union in the Middle East which Germany and Russia fought in the bitter Spanish civil war from 1937 to 1939.

Then Russia threw materiel and technical manpower into the balance on the side of the Spanish Republican forces. In opposition Germany committed strength to Franco's armies and a preview of World War II was had in miniature.

Cognizant of the peril for the world in this military adventuring, Dulles said in a recent speech:

"It seemed particularly important to avoid a situation where great military powers confronted each other, by proxy, under conditions which would engage their respective prestiges in a manner ominous for peace, not only within the area, but possibly throughout the world."

Armed aid to Israel obviously would tend to identify us with that country, and by the same token work to separate us from the Arab nations. The latter, already recipient of considerable help from Russia, would be driven more fully under Soviet influence.

This is exactly what we do not want. We fear that those who urge arms for Israel, while motivated by understandable sympathy, would cavalierly invite the proxy war that too easily can grow into face-to-face combat between the world's military titans.

This government knows full well that the Middle Eastern sore spot cannot be allowed to go on festering. It understands, too, that Israel will be progressively less able to meet Arab threats if a halt is not had to the rearming of its neighbors.

But it is America's belief that the solution of this controversy must be gained under the auspices of the United Nations. Dag Hammerskjold's brilliant start, with the arrangement of a truce, suggests our hopes are reasonable.

And, as Dulles noted, there are signs Russia, too, is becoming aware of the grave consequences which could flow from "playing fast and loose with peace in the area." We would like to believe Moscow meant it when recently it offered to accept a U.N. settlement of the Arab-Israeli dispute.

It should be plain from Dulles' statements that the United States is not sitting idly by while Israel daily falls deeper into the shadow of danger. We are indeed concerned and determined to maintained Israeli independence. But we are no less determined to preserve the peace of the world.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This 84th Congress, run by the Democrats, is getting no speed record. Unless it gets a move on, you'll hear a lot about it from the Republicans in the campaign.

Republicans still smart from President Truman's attacks on what he called the 80th "do-nothing" Congress in 1948. They were running it then. They'll be happy to reply in kind this year if the Democrats give them a chance.

As a sign of things to look for:

President Eisenhower was critical of this 84th Congress when it finished its first session last summer. It's done less so far in this session. It still has a couple of months to go.

In this session Congress has passed only four pieces of major legislation and Eisenhower vetoed two of them: the farm bill and a bill to take direct federal control off the prices natural gas producers could charge.

The other two: present corporation and excise tax levels were continued for another year; construction of a 760-million-dollar system of power dams and irrigation projects in the upper Colorado River area was authorized.

The Senate last year, and the House this year, have approved highway program bills. But they differ. There can be no final action till both houses agree.

Last year the 84th Congress passed a lot of legislation which the Democrats said was good, no matter how Eisenhower felt about it.

This was the record in 1955:

The reciprocal trade program was continued another three years; the small business administration was continued for two years; the military draft law was extended; corporation and excise taxes were continued a year.

The first session also gave Eisenhower a free hand in defending Formosa, passed a new military reserve program he wanted, boosted the national debt limit, raised the minimum wage for workers in interstate commerce from 75 cents to $1 an hour, and raised the pay of most people working for the government, including judges and members of Congress.

The Senate last year ratified three major treaties: mutual assistance for the defense of Formosa, bringing West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and Austrian independence.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

They Were Called 'Christians'

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Acts 11:26 tells us that "the disciples were called Christians in Antioch."

We are not told by whom they were called Christians. Was it by the disciples themselves, in recognition of their allegiance to Jesus of Nazareth as the Christ? Or was it a term of derision accorded them by the denizens of a corrupt and licentious city?

I assume that it was the former, as the name is associated with the coming of Barnabas from the church at Jerusalem, the seeking of Paul at Tarsus, the bringing of him to Antioch and the continuance of these great leaders for a year with the newly named disciples (Acts 11: 26).

"Christian" was the name by Nazarene were to be known—a which all future disciples of the very proper and honorable name. But it might well have been a term of contempt if the people of Antioch had deemed to take any notice of a small group so strangely in contrast with their environment.

Perhaps it was not an accident that the disciples were first called Christians in Antioch. If they had been first called Christians in Rome, it might have been a symbolic challenge of the Christian imperialism of St. Paul to the imperial world power of Rome.

But in Antioch the challenge was to something deeper and more appalling in its hold upon humanity—the power of evil—a power which is still the greatest menace of our own times.

Of all the ancient cities of its time, Antioch in Syria (to be distinguished from Antioch in Pisidia, Acts 13:14), perhaps more than any other city represented the many - splendored worldly glory of paganism.

Situated on the navigable Orontes River, 14 miles from the Mediterranean coast, it was one of 37 cities founded by Selucus Nikator (B.C. 312-280), who secured most of what Alexander the Great had conquered, founding a dynasty that lasted for 247 years.

Of these 37 cities, 16 were Antiochs, and the greatest of these was the Antioch of which we are speaking. A city of probably half a million inhabitants, it was 300 miles north of Jerusalem. It secured the vast flow of trade between East and West that had once gone farther south. It was prosperous and magnificent.

Its splendor is almost indescribable and unbelievable. From east to west of the city, in a straight line, ran a fine corso for five miles, with double colonades, under which the people could walk with protection in wet weather.

The great board walk at our Atlantic City would seem like a plaything in comparison. The temple and public buildings were in similar splendor. Anticipating by ages our sculptured Mount Rushmore in South Dakota, Mt. Sulpius was hewed by the sculptor, Leios, into a vast statue of Charon, the ferryman of the Styx.

But Antioch's moral condition, amid all this splendor, was such that when Rome's moralists would describe Rome's moral degradation, they were wont to say that "the Orontes had overflowed the Tiber."

Could there have been a greater challenge to all that Christianity had to offer? Or a greater faith and daring than of those who in such an environment called themselves Christians?

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The TV channels are not as golden as they seem, says Jim Backus, who ought to know.

Monday of this week was Backus Day on the local screens. It started out when he starred on NBC's hour dramatic show, matinee. At 5, he apeared in 'I Married Joan," kicking off the NBS reruns that will be on six times a week. In the evening, he was on KTTV with another rerun of the Joan Davis comedy show.

In addition, he was on TV with 30 one-minute commercials as the voice of Mr. Magoo, plugging a beer. And if that wasn't enough—you could also hear him on every channel as the guy who says 'It's a Fo-o-ord.'

"I know," Buckus sighed, "everybody thinks I'm rolling in dough. Why, whenever I go to my agent's office on Rodeo Drive in Beverly Hills, I have to drive in the back way. If I walk down the street in front of the shops, it's like going through a bazaar. They pull me inside and try to sell me the most expensive thing in the joint.

"Sure, I'm making good dough, but it's nothing fabulous. I have one of those stone age contracts. I think Neville Chamberlain musia been my agent on it.

Nor is the pay fabulous from the commercials, he added. "Every once in a while a check comes in,' he remarked. 'I must say, the people are remarkably honest."

Even without the TV coin (which I suspect supplies a mighty comfortable living), Jim should have no worries. He is developing into one of the screen's most able character actors, both in comedy and serious roles. He made a real impression as James Dean's father in 'Rebel Without a Cause' and left this week for Monterey, Calif., to play an army officer in 'The Girl He Left Behind."

Lessons—Too Aloof—HBD2U—Milk Only-Buffet Satellites—Why

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Everybody has noticed how much smoother and more talkative members of the Russian embassy staff have become recently as they beat the party path hot and heavy. Here's one reason why:

They have all been taking courses in English. And taking them seriously, too.

Classes are conducted twice a week by an American man and woman who keep a very careful check on each staffer's progress in mastering the English idiom.

The grades the Russians make in the courses are sent to Moscow, by the way. Marking is on a 1-2-3 basis.

The Russian gals must also be taking lessons in how to sport American clothes, make-up and hair styles because they're looking more chic these days.

PEOPLE ARE REMARKING that Russian Ambassador Georgi Zaroubin could use a few pointers on how to be one of the boys. Try as he may, the heavy-eyebrowed Russian can't seem to mix easily with a crowd.

Other night at a party, for example, he wandered around aimlessly for a couple of hours and couldn't carry a conversation with anyone.

THIS TOWN pioneered the cocktail party and has now added a new dimension to the birthday party.

Other day 500 reporters, officials and miscellaneous citizens gathered at a gala luncheon to celebrate the 75th birthday of Paul Wooton, Capitol correspondent for the New Orleans Times-Picayune for close to half a century.

Paul is one of the nicest, most beloved and best-known gents in Washington.

Next one of its kind coming up is for the 80th birthday of Cyrus S. Ching, first director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. He's a real nice guy, too, and the 500 tickets for the dinner were snapped up immediately. However, if you see Cy, don't mention the party. It's going to be a surprise affair.

SEN. ALEXANDER WILEY (R-Wis) and Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY) rounded up 30 Washington kids in the Senate dining room recently to feed them milk shakes made out of powdered milk. It was a publicity stunt for the milk industry.

But when genial Sen. Wiley offered one boy—obviously older tan the rest—a shake, the lad replied:

"I'd just as soon have a glass of Wisconsin beer, if you don't mind."

Somewhat taken aback, the senator explained that beer was not served in the Senate dining room, although it can be served in the House dining room. The lad drank his milk shake.

POLITICOS are beginning to move in what the town laughingly calls the "smart satellite set."

An evening ago Senators Henry Dworshak (R-Ida), Dennis Chavez (D-NM) and Theodore Francis Green (D-RI) dropped by the Czechoslovakian embassy. Occasion was a lavish reception and buffet to celebrate the country's national holiday.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson officially accepted an invitation to the affair but called at the last minute to say he couldn't make it. Seems a family situation had arisen that took precedence.

The State Department was represented by John Simmons, chief of protocol, who came in a dapper looking tux and drank Czech beer.

Bubbly French pink champagne was also served, among other liquids. The buffet featured giant Czech hot dogs and potato salad. Mounds of caviar and salmon kept the high-class eaters content.

VIRGINIA WARREN, daughter of Chief Justice Earl Warren, and TV funny man George Gobel compared notes at a cocktail party here and decided that Washington was a bigger party town than Hollywood.

George was here for some publicity gimmick and he got on the subject with Virginia, who is a native Californian. He had been to four parties that day and was obviously exhausted. Virginia explained to him that Washington partying was rougher because you couldn't sit down or go swimming, like you can at typical California parties.

From California Comes Unusual, Luxurious Wedding Breakfast Menu

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food And Markets Editor

A "sit-down" wedding breakfast in the California manner is a gala affair. We asked Lucien Heyraud to help you plan one. He is chef at the Palace Hotel in San Francisco, one of that hospitable city's most famous landmarks.

His menu: — Pineapple palace royle or coupe de pineapple au champagne, consomme madrilene, breast of capon, fleurette; salad gordon rouge, strawberry melba, petits fours, champagne punch or pineapple party punch, coffee. He says this can be served at home for about $7.50 a guest.

Consomme Madrilene: Combine equal parts of beef consomme, chicken consomme and tomato juice. Heat and serve with thin slice of lemon.

Salada Cordon Rouge: serve pickled beets, cut in thin slice of lemon.

Salada Cordon Rouge: serve pickled beets, cut in thin strips, marinated in French dressing; also celery root, cut in thin strips, marinated in mustard dressing, all on a bed of lettuce and watercress.

Strawberry Melba: Soak fresh frozen strawberries in brandy and Grand Mariner (half and half). Combine with ice cream. Cover with the following Melba sauce: 2 tablespoons cornstarch, two-thirds cup sugar, 1¼ cups red raspberries, one third cup currant jelly. Combine cornstarch and sugar, stir in crushed raspberries and currant jelly. Cook until mixture is thick and clear. Cool. Top with whipped cream.

Pineapple Party Punch
(50 3-ounce servings)

Three quarter cup sugar, ½ cup fresh lemon juice, 6 cups (1 large can) unsweetened pineapple juice, 2 (four fifth quart) bottles California sautern wine, 1 large bottle domestic champagne.

Dissolve sugar in lemon juice and pineapple juice. Pour over block of ice punch bowl. Add sautern and mix well. Just before serving, pour in champagne. Garnish with strawberries, mint and orange slices.

TOMORROW'S MENU: Cold roast beef, garnished with sliced tomatoes, cucumbers and radishes, baked macaroni and cheese, crusty rolls or bread, butter or margarine, green bean salad with French dressing, ice cream with crushed strawberry sauce, coffee, tea, milk.

Helping Child to Catch Up Lessons Is Up to the Teacher

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Several columns ago, I discussed the case of Max who could not do his arithmetic homework because of a school absence that lost him several vital lessons in fractions. Max's father didn't help him with the homework. Instead, he told the boy to take his problem to his teacher.

Max obeyed—and after school the next day was given the instruction he needed.

Sometimes a child so fears his teacher that he can't take this kind of problem to her. He knows that if he asks her how to make up lessons he's lost by some absence, she'll say, "That's your problem" with cold finality.

Under these circumstances, we accept his feeling—and ourselves ask his teacher how she wants him to make up his lost lessons.

Parents' help with homework is not always helpful, as we've pointed out before. One reason for this is the difference in the methods our teachers used and those used by our children's teachers.

Unfortunately, many parents feel that asking a teacher for help with a child's lost lessons is an awful imposition on her. They resolve the problem by demanding it belligerently, coaching the child themselves or just pretending that he needs no help at all.

As none of these solutions is very satisfactory, I've made it my business to get us some reassuring direction from two school authorities.

Says Dr. Ruth Cunningham, Professor of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University: "Usually it's easier to get help on lost lessons from the teacher because the child may be given confusing methods if several people attempt to help him."

Dr. Arthur Hughson, New York City's Assistant Superintendent of Schools says: "Children who need special help because of school absence should first ask it of their teacher. If they don't get it, their parents should then take up their need with her—or with the school principal."

Everyone can profit by clearing up this question of who's responsible for this help, it seems to me.

As it is now, children are the victims of parent and teacher confusion on it. They hate returning to school after an absence because they know no clear-cut provision will be made to help them recover lost lessons.

The brave ones fight, protesting our unreasonable expectation that they can do fractions with no instructions in fractions; the submissive ones just let the whole thing go, accepting our neglect of their need until it has become an acute and serious handicap.

Middle Age Is Illusion Produced by State of Mind

Middle-aged Americans now are about four years younger physically and have anywhere from five to 20 more years of productive early middle life than Americans of 50 years ago, a specialist in medical physics reports.

I don't know how a specialist in medical physics defines middle-age. Me, I've about given up trying to figure out when middle-age starts and when it ends.

I know women in their middle forties who by any standard are "young" women. They look young. In evening clothes they are stunning and in shorts they are as trim as schoolgirls.

They seem to be able to do anything, and to be interested in everything. Can you call these women middle-aged?

I also know grandmothers in their seventies who travel around the country alone in their own cars. They lead active social lives, play an important role in community affairs and haven't even begun to slow down. Have they passed from middle age to old age just because of the number of thin years?

WHAT'S THE YARDSTICK?

Honest to goodness, I don't know where the middle years begin or where they end.

Could it be that middle-age is merely a state of mind and that the woman who so chooses can stay young until she is old?

It almost seems that way, so long do many women of today hold onto youth despite their years.

It must be so. Don't you know a great many young women of all ages and only a few stodgy souls whose whole attitude toward living reminds you that they are middle-aged?

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — John Tripp stopped outside his car because he heard what sounded like a thunderclap. It was a good thing, too.

Church Class Meets For May Banquet

The Loyal Partner Class of Central Christian Church held its annual May banquet recently in the church dining room.

The tables were cleverly decorated by the chairman of that committee. The name of the class was carried out by pastel colored nut cups with standing figures representing Loyal Partners. Bouquets of spring flowers were on blue paper strips down the center of tables. The program and place cards were blue musical notes.

A roast beef dinner was served by the hospitality group of the church for May.

President John Scott introduced the teacher of the class and other officers. Clara Scott read a letter from the Rev. and Mrs. R. E. May.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Scott introduced Mrs. Lecie Hutchinson, who played Star Dust, Humeresque and Music Box on the piano. As she played Humeresque, the last part was played with one hand, and the other hand played Swanee River. Alvin Middendorf sang several solos and led group singing during which Irene Vernor was called upon to sing Smiles.

The group was adjourned to meet for a picnic June 12, 1956.

SHIP IN SPACE
A Roy Parker Rocket Ranger Story
By RAY BROEKEL

Chapter 1: In Earth-Moon Run

Roy Parker had been on the moon run for a number of years. During that time rocket operations had always run smoothly.

Meteors had struck the ship a few times, but no serious damages resulted. All in all, Roy described his trips between the earth and moon as quite uneventful.

Roy and Jack Baines, the navigator, were going over the routine flight check before take-off time.

Are There Pirates?

"I wonder what truth there is in this space pirate business, Roy?" said Jack.

"Oh, I've read a lot in the newspapers about so-called space pirates," replied Roy, "but outside of missing ships no one has actually seen any pirates."

"I talked to Commander Jenkins yesterday and he told me to have the radiotrone set on supersensitive beam. He mentioned that there were a few more ships than usual being lost in space, although no evidence points to so-called pirates being the reason."

"But where there's valuable cargo being transported, there's liable to be someone around with a dishonest mind. Remember way back in history when sea pirates used to raid ships going back and forth between Europe and the United States? Seems to me that one of those fellows was named Blackbeard, or something like that."

Jack had such a serious expression on his face when he said this that Roy had a hard time to keep from laughing.

"Oh, come now, Jack. This is the 21st century. This is the year 2010."

People Still People

"Yes, I know," spoke Jack seriously, "but people are people now as well as they were in the past."

Scotty O'Rourke, the cargo chief, came bustling in the room with a sheaf of papers. Scotty was just over five feet tall and almost as wide. It was his job to see that all out-going ships were loaded properly.

"Everything's in order on the ship, Roy. The port cleared your take-off time for 6:00."

"Thanks, Scotty. And how's little Scotty doing these days?"

Whenever anyone mentioned little Scotty, O'Rourke's blue eyes danced happily for he was proud of his four year old son. In fact he was even prouder of him than he was of the medal given to him by the World Government for being one of the crew that made the first flight to the moon.

Which is as it should be.

"All the time he's talking about being a Rocket Ranger," laughed Scotty. "You should hear him. Rocket Ranger this and Rocket Ranger that. He even zooms around the yard like a make-believe rocket when he's playing."

Roy and Jack smiled as they heard this from Scotty. Jack said, "I guess we were like that too, Roy."

Roy nodded his head in agreement. Then he took the papers from Scotty.

Blast Off Time Close

"We'd better spot check the ship now. Half an hour until blast off time. See you when we get back, Scotty."

"Sure, Roy. And come up to the house for one of those old fashioned spaghetti dinners."

O'Rourke walked out to the port with them, then waved goodbye as he went off to the freight terminal.

Roy and Jack then started in on their spot check. Blast off time was just a few minutes away.

To be continued next week

Let's Do Birding

BUTTERFLY BIRDS
By Emma Mae Leonhard

May is the month of Warblers, tiny birds smaller than Sparrows, except for one kind called the Chat.

They are very exciting and active birds, most of them almost continually flitting as gracefully as butterflies while they expertly catch insects for their meals. Some may peep at us from dense shrubbery; others work around branches and trunks of trees.

As a rule, the Warblers are dressed in a beautiful plumage, not brilliant but attractively patterned. Yellow seems to be the common hue, often combined with areas of black, gray, white, or olive-green, with red now and then. The plumage is never glossy.

If you want to see Warblers, you mustn't put off trying to find them; for most of them are migrating from the South and stay with us for only a short time.

A flock comes in, eats many of our harmful insects and worms, then moves on. Other flocks move in and then fly on. Some kinds of Warblers come in earlier than others.

Takes Patience

If you really know various kinds of Warblers, you will know just about when to look for a special kind. However, it takes lots of patience, studying, and careful looking to be able to identify the different kinds of Warblers.

They don't sit still long enough for you to find them, let alone to examine the characteristic markings. Don't get discouraged; you can have fun watching these butterfly-birds flitting around in the oaks or elms, and you'll gradually learn some of them. Even good birders have taken years to feel that they know all of them.

You say that "all of them" sounds as if there are many kinds. Yes indeed, there are!

Many In Jacksonville

Right here in and around Jacksonville, birders can find, with patience remember, at least twenty some seasons. Perhaps the most common kinds are the Black and White, the Tennessee, the Nashville, Myrtle, Chestnut - sided, Palm, the Yellow, Northern Yellow-throat, the Yellow-breasted Chat, and the Redstart. The last four stay with us all summer and nest here.

Some of these "butterfly Warblers," different from real butterflies, sing attractive songs; but others produce just ordinary ones. When you hear rather high-pitched vigorous repetitions of "tweet" or "seebit" or "tsee" or "weet" or "seet" and many more coming from the tops and outer branches of trees, try to find the source of the song.

You'll probably find a Warbler. Sometimes May is so full of these songs that it's hard to sort out the source and locate the different birds.

The May bird stories are going to introduce some of our common Warblers to you. They will be a good beginning for your Warbler list. However, don't worry too much about identifying Warblers; begin to enjoy them.

King, Queen Help —
Valentin Hauy Starts 1st School For Blind

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON

We have a very fine school here in Jacksonville for children who are blind or cannot see very well. So do all the other states in the nation, and there are schools or special rooms for them in many of our large cities.

But it was not always so. For many centuries it was believed that it was not possible to educate blind children.

Except for a few individuals who found devoted personal teachers, blind children were kept in their own homes, or if they had no one to care for them, there were public homes for them. Sometimes they were taught some handicraft like broom making or chair caning, but nothing was done to educate them.

Finally, though, there did appear a man who believed that blind children could be taught everything that sighted children could. He was Valentin Hauy (his first name was pronounced as it is spelled; his last name like Hawe' with the accent on the last syllable.) He was a young Frenchman who was a private tutor and teacher in Paris in the last part of the Eighteenth century.

Blind Girl Encourages Hauy

He came to know a brilliant young blind girl, Maria Paradis, who had been privately educated. She encouraged Hauy to start a school for blind children. Hauy's interest and pity for the blind had been aroused when he had seen them begging on the streets of Paris and laughted at by cruel men because they could not see.

One of these blind beggars was a seventeen year old boy, Francois Lesueur, who was finally persuaded to let Hauy teach him. Since none of these blind children had ever gone to any kind of school, and since Francois did not want to give up his chance of getting a little money through his begging, Hauy had to pay him to come to his house in the afternoons and study.

Soon Francois became very enthusiastic about getting an education. Before long Hauy had him reading from wooden tablets upon which raised letters had been carved. But of course this was very slow because Hauy had to carve each wooden page by hand.

Shouts At Discovery

One day Francois was in Hauy's study and he happened to get hold of an engraved invitation card. With his fingers he felt the raised letters—embossed letters, they are called—and shouted that he could tell what some of the letters were.

Now Hauy felt that he had made a great discovery, he traced letters on strong paper with the handle of his pen. Francois named them all.

Then Hauy had pages printed in embossed letters, and in a few months he taught Francois how to read and how to print, or write.

Now Helps Others

Now that Hauy knew that he would be able to teach blind children, he found rich people, even the King and Queen of France, who helped him to start the first school for blind children.

Not only did he use embossed printing, but he invented ways of making relief maps and arithmetic boards. These had little squares into which little blocks with raised numbers and arithmetic signs could be placed and so problems could be worked. Other and better kinds of writing were discovered later, but Hauy's embossed printing was used for many years, and still is used occasionally today.

More Schools Open

Hauy's school was a success, but it was forced to close down during the French Revolution. Then Hauy went to Germany and Russia to try and get schools for the blind opened. He later returned to Paris where his school was reopened after the defeat of Napoleon.

But Hauy had proved that blind children could be educated in schools just as seeing children could, and in the Nineteenth Century, schools for blind children were founded in all the countries of Europe and North and South America.

The End

THE MERRIE THEATRE-
The Red Lantern Moon

By Hugh Jones

Part 23: Wind Destroys House

Listen to that. You know what that is? It's the magic click, click of dancing feet, the dancing feet of "the one, the only, the magnificent (modesty prohibits saying more) Sir Olan Actbow" doing six vaudeville shows a day at the Palace Theatre (Chicago) in 1922!

You know the old songs are coming back, and the banjo, why I just knew that big, bangy, syncopated, bwanging instrument would come back.

"Hey, Mr. Banjo! Bwang a tune for Actbow!"

Theatre History

Although television, radio, movies, and the stage are popular today and entertainers are highly paid, theatre has not always enjoyed such popularity. Although the first permanent English settlers came to this country in 1607 there is no record of any kind of a play in America in the 1600's.

The first actor in America (that we know about) is a very shadowy character. In about the year 1701 Richard Hunter petitioned the governor of the Province of New York for a license to present plays in New York City.

Mr. Hunter stated in his petition that he had been to "great charge and expense in providing persons and necessary's" for the acting of his plays.

The petition was granted, but there isn't any record of the performances. We are forever curious as to what kind of an acting company Hunter had, how successful it was, and what finally became of it.

Red Lantern Moon

(The story thus far. A severe storm is approaching. Will Sumner lands his plane on the village of Okinawa. He spends the evening at the house of the mayor. During the evening, the little girl, Lin, goes to show him her little paraquette . . . but it is gone. Has it been lost in the storm?)

(Frantic knocking is heard at the door. Uncle Te opens the door and an old man enters. He is soaked and as he comes in, a terrific wind with rain comes through the door. It is only with a great deal of force that Mr. Pokang and Uncle Te are able to close the door.)

Old Man: (Gasping) Oh, oh . . . huh, oh, it was terrible (gasp) ah, ah. . . . Big wind come and blow my house down. I am lucky to escape with my life.

Mrs. Soong: (Goes toward stove) How terrible! I'll put on some hot water; you must be drenched through.

Will: You must have come a great distance.

Uncle Te: (With wonder) No, he lives only on the edge of the village, ten or twenty houses from here. (Mrs. Soong who has been boiling the water, suddenly looks toward the bedroor door.)

Mrs. Soong: (Apprehensively) Lin! (Everyone's attention is drawn toward the bedroom door.)

Lin! (Pause, no reply.)

(Mrs. Soong goes into bedroom off stage. Suddenly she screams.)

Lin! She's gone! She's gone! (Mrs. Soong comes on stage.) She's gone. Lin's gone and her window is open! She must have gone after the bird! We must go out after her.

All: She's gone? Your daughter isn't there? Are you sure? etc.

Mrs. Soong: We must go out after her! She'll be killed out there in this big storm!

Uncle Te: (Going toward his coat and putting it on, as he grabs a lantern.) Now you stay here and watch this old man. Enough harm has come of this evening. We men will go out after her. You women stay here. We must be sure someone is safe.

Will and Mr. Pokang: Sure, we'll go! (They get coats. Will grabs a flashlight. They exit.)

Will: Now stop worrying; we'll get that little marverick . . . but just don't worry. (They exit.) (Offstage can be heard the shouts of the men, very dimly fading off into the distance.)

Men (Will, Uncle Te, Mr. Pokang) Lin! Lin! Oh, Lin! Oh Lin! Oh, Lin! Lin! Lin! (The two women look horror stricken as the scene closes.)

Wonder World

TREE HOPPERS
By Ray Broekel

Tree Hoppers are peculiar looking insects that are usually found on leaves, small branches and twigs, and flower petals.

These insects are known as sucking insects. They have mouth parts that pierce whatever they happen to be feeding on at the moment. They then suck out the sap, or juice within the plant.

There are many different kinds of Tree Hoppers to be found. One rather common kind is a rather bright green in color. During Spring and Summer when there are plenty of green leaves, these insects blend into their surroundings so that they are almost impossible to see.

Well Named

Tree Hoppers get their name from the way they move about. Quick, jerky hops identify this insect. They move especially fast if sense danger, and can cover long distances in a short time.

Some species of Tree Hoppers produce a sweetish liquid as plant lice do. This liquid is known as honey dew. Ants often collect this honey dew.

Tree Hoppers are considered to be insect pests since they eat only plants. They are sometimes mistaken for Katydids, since they do look somewhat like them. Tree Hoppers, however, have much fuller and shorter bodies.

A LONG, LONG ROAD A-WENDING—A 23.8 mile highway bridge, claimed by Louisiana to be the longest road bridge in the world, is nearing completion in the southeastern part of the state. Known as the Lake Pontchartrain Causeway, the structure will connect the greater New Orleans area with the Louisiana highlands to the north. Above, a crane sets piles at the first hump opening, four miles from the north shore. The hump provides 25 feet vertical clearance and 65 feet horizontal clearance for the passage of small craft.

WANTED: MUSICAL DUBS

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, noted composer, author and music critic, says people who would like to play a musical instrument but have no talent should make a stab at it just for their own pleasure. "Like golf, tennis or baseball, music needs a great many dubs," he says.

It costs about $200 today to raise a Holstein heifer from birth to first calving in feed, bedding, labor, housing and other items.

Jerseyville Talks Police Radio; 75 Meters Ordered

JERSEYVILLE—The county - city police radio hookup was a topic for discussion again at the meeting of the Jerseyville City Council Tuesday evening. The council delegated the city attorney to work in conjunction with the state's attorney regarding the project subject to the approval of the county board of supervisors.

The proposal calls for a 24 hour police radio service as a point operating on the part of the city and county. Commissioners Claude Gross and Henry Horn were appointed to investigate the price of equipment for the city car to be paid from donations by various local civic organizations. Sufficient funds from such sources have already been pledged. The cost of maintaining service is to be shared by the city and county.

An order was placed Tuesday ight for 75 parking meters to replace those in service that have become obsolete and worn out. They were bought from the Park-O-Meter Corporation. Some of the meters now in use were purchased from the same corporation and the ones ordered Tuesday evening are being bought under the option of a previous contract at a cost of $46.50 each, to be paid from meter revenue.

It was reported that all meter cost has been paid and revenue from the meters has been paid into the police and street departments for defraying expenses therein.

Commissioner Henry Horn presented a contract for operation of the city dump entered into for the coming year with John Gray. The city will pay $125 a year for use of the land for the dump and Gray will police the premises.

Welcome to our competitor's big bottle

THE NEWS that another well-known cola has come out with a big bottle is gratifying to us for more reasons than one.

There is, of course, the compliment that is always implied in any imitation.

But even more important is the recognition that our policy of giving the public the fullest possible value for its money is not only a worthy one, but also the only policy which in the long run assures continued success.

So we are glad to welcome the appearance of our competitor's big bottle in this area.

In the meantime, remember, you don't drink glass—what counts is contents. There is only one Pepsi-Cola—the light refreshment. It refreshes without filling.

Quality has made Pepsi-Cola the fastest-growing beverage in America.

We suggest you try both Pepsi-Cola and the newcomer's big bottle too. Taste both and be your own judge.

MAN AGAINST THE FLAMES during the "final examination" at the Federal Civil Defense Administration's rescue school at Olney, Md. Somewhere behind the curtain of fire are volunteer "bomb victims" who must be rescued, using the techniques taught at the school to carry back home with him. (FCDA Photo)

FCDA Trains Rescue Corps

Twenty miles from downtown Washington is the world's greatest "theater" — a gigantic stage setting without a stage, professional actors or scenario.

Amidst a backdrop of "bombed-out" building ruins, volunteer "actors" and "actresses" periodically put behind the day's workaday world to become "victims" at the Federal Civil Defense Administration's Olney, Md., Rescue School.

• • •

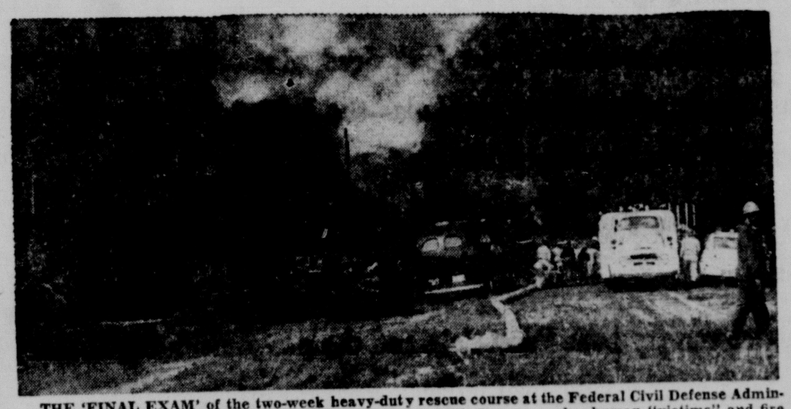

WHILE BURNING OIL is played on stairways and other key spots in the ruins by a remote control panel, students at the national rescue school enter the flaming structures and actually rescue the volunteer "victims."

Some "victims" pretend unconsciousness. Others simulate situations the rescue workers would meet in an actual civil defense disaster by becoming "hysterical," and even by kicking and fighting their would-be "rescuers."

Seldom, however, do professional rescue instructors standing by actually have to enter the ruins to help out their students during the "final exam" of the two-week course. And never are the volunteer victims actually in danger, for they have been placed in areas known to be safe from the hidden flaming oil jets.

FAMED 'RESCUE STREET' of the Federal Civil Defense Administration's Olney, Md., rescue school, a $200,000 collection of carefully-designed ruins similar to the various structures civil defense rescue workers would face back home in extricating victims of bombings. Up to 70 students are checked out on the built-in obstacles during each week or two-week course. (FCDA Photo)

Rescue 'Victim' Make-up Emphasizes Realism

MAKE-UP MAN Jack Newlin, an instructor at the Federal Civil Defense Administration's Olney, Md., rescue school, applies finishing touches to some volunteer rescue "victims." The rescue school, opened in August 1952, has graduated thousands of students who became rescue instructors back in their home towns. (FCDA Photo)

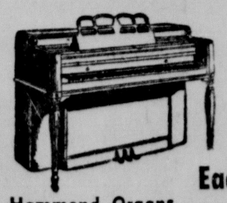

STARK REALISM in make-up and placing of "victims" in the flaming "bombed-out" training buildings is designed to test both the physical and emotional stamina of students at the Federal Civil Defense Administration's Olney, Md., rescue school. Effects such as the bloody stump of an arm (above) are achieved by strapping on rubber or plastic "moulages." (FCDA Photo)

'BOMB-BATTERED' autos are among the props at the Federal Civil Defense Administration's famed rescue school at Olney, Md. Volunteer "victims" usually are Federal employes from nearby Washington, D. For Full Garden Harvest Sow Seeds in Summer

Vegetable seeds sown in the early spring can make only half a garden. The other half must be grown from seeds sown in the summer.

All the early vegetables, which grow fast and give the first harvest should be sown in summer for fall crops. There are others that in many sections do not grow successfully from spring sowings, but yield fine harvests in the fall.

Before you sow early vegetables late, check with the weatherman in your locality to learn when the first killing frost may be expected. That will give you the number of frost-free days which remain for tender varieties, which freezing would ruin.

Their harvest should begin at least a month before the first frost, and it may be advisable to select the fastest growing varieties to make sure. Remember that growth will be slowed somewhat by hot, dry weather, so a little more time is required to mature from summer sowing.

New sowings of beets, 50 days, beets, 55 days and carrots, 70 days, will give fall crops of much better quality than old plants which may survive from spring sowings. Lettuce plants seldom live through midsummer, the fall lettuce crop is dependent upon summer sowing.

Vegetables difficult to grow in the spring in many sections, may yield a fine harvest in the fall. A reason for this in some cases is that long days and hot weather makes the plants bolt to seed, and spoil their leaves. There is no tendency to do this when days grow shorter and nights cooler.

Head lettuce, in sections where it is difficult to grow early, will make fine heads in the fall. Cauliflower, most difficult for amateurs in the spring, makes fine heads of excellent flavor in the fall. Chinese cabbage is easy to grow in the fall. Its tall, cylindrical heads of crisp leaves are delicious in salads. When cooked it has a delicate cabbage flavor, but no cabbage odor.

Chinese Cabbage Matures Best From Seed Sown in Summer.

Brussels sprouts should be sown late in most sections. It gives a fall harvest lasting until Christmas, surviving repeated freezing without injury. Some varieties of broccoli mature in 60 days and the quality is much improved by cool autumn nights. The fall turnip crop is the best of the year.

In many ways the fall harvest is the best for all kinds of vegetables, and no home gardener can afford to neglect the summer sowing which will make his fall harvest complete. Summer sowing is easy if the precautions which insure good germination, and emergence of seedlings, are taken. Make the drills deeper, soak the soil below and around them, cover the seed with a special porous soil containing no clay and keep the soil moist until the seedlings are well established.

WELL PRESERVED

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Cemetery worker John W. Newton today began serving 55 days in jail for drunken driving and amazed county medical authorities can hardly believe he's alive to serve the term.

Municipal Judge James S. Blaine noted that a blood test given Newton after his arrest showed up as .480 on the scale. The judge observed that a scale reading of .150 is regarded as drunkenness.

County medical authorities testified that an alcoholic content of more than .400 is considered deadly.

Here's How to Help Seed Grow in Hot Weather

Most amateurs have small difficulty in growing plants from seed in cool, moist, spring weather. But in the hot, dry weather of summer it is often a different story.

There is no reason to fail with hot weather sowing if a few precautions are taken, but careless methods which are successful in the spring, may fail.

Soil conditioning experiments, following the introduction of chemical conditioners, have focused attention upon the top inch of garden soil. Rain and sun beat down upon it and if it contains much clay a few hours' sunshine on damp soil will bake it into a hard crust which neither air nor water can easily penetrate.

The easiest way to avoid this is to prepare a special soil with which to cover seeds in hot weather. The quantity needed is relatively small. It should contain no clay whatever, and at least one-half organic matter such as peat moss or compost, the other half sharp sand. Use it to cover all seed after June 1.

Practically all late sowing can be done in drills (shallow trenches) and these should be made two or three inches deep. The next step is to fill the drill with water several times, so the ground is soaked deeply. Sow seed on top of the damp soil and cover it with your special soil. This in turn should be soaked. It will hold moisture well and cannot form a crust. It may be necessary to sprinkle it daily to prevent the seed drying out. High temperatures combined with abundant moisture will speed germination so your seeds should soon emerge from underground.

Until the seedling plants have begun to grow and become established, the soil should be sprinkled frequently. This is the only time when light and frequent sprinkling is advisable in the garden. Throughout the summer it will be necesary to make sure that the garden receives at least 1 inch of water a week, either from rain or from the hose.

All late sown crops should be fed with balanced commercial plant food applied before sowing by the placement method, in shallow trenches 3 or 4 inches away from the drill on both sides, where the roots will reach it when they grow long enough.

Group Talks How To Attract Good Teachers

ASHLAND — Forty-five people were present at the community meeting of the Ashland Community Survey on Education Tuesday night at the Ashland high school. The study group, "How To Attract and Hold Good Teachers" with Dr. E. L. Beadles as chairman, presented eight recommendations that his group had been unanimous in preparing.

The audience took part in discussion after each recommendation was presented. The group had compiled very interesting reports of their study and findings and also a chart of salaries of school employees in neighboring counties. These can be compared with the local situation.

The Survey on Education will not hold meetings during the summer. Members of the committee are: Mrs. Bertha Adkins, Mrs. Raymond Allen, Alf Anderson, Mrs. William Campbell, Rev. M. O. Challman, Mrs. Willard Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mahoney, Eleanor Plattner and Mrs. Edward Satorius.

Danforth Scholarship

Charles Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Anderson of Medford, Oregon, former Ashland residents, has achieved the honor of being awarded a Danforth Graduate Fellowship, fifty of which are awarded in the United States yearly.

Charles is a graduate of the Ashland grade school, moving to Medford in 1943. He is a brother of Mrs. Walter Dorsett of Ashland.

Mr. Anderson, senior philosophy major, Marquam, Oregon, was notified by the Foundation by telegram about the award, which will amount, according to the tentative budget to $2400-$2800 a year for four years, plus one year at seminary if desired.

The Danforth graduate fellowship was inaugurated in 1951 to aid men preparing themselves to be college teachers to their various fields of specialization. Charles will use his fellowship at Union Theological Seminary in New York City in preparing for the ministry of the Methodist church.

Pittsfield Cafe Sold Wednesday

PITTSFIELD — Nick Haskins Wednesday purchased the Hob-Nob Cafe from James L. McHose, who has conducted the business on the north side of the square for the past two years.

McHose has purchased the interest of W. C. Bush in the Pike County Democrat-Times, and will join John Caughlan as editor and publisher of the paper on June 1. He retains ownership of the two-story building in which the Hob-Nob is located.

Haskins has not made definite arrangements for the future conduct of the business, but will take possession on Monday, and plans to close the establishment for a week or two until his plans are definite. He is owner of the "Q" Grill near the northwest corner of the square, and of two clothing establishments, The Clothing Center on the north side of the square and Nick's Men's Wear and Sporting Goods store on the west side of the square. He is a young man with wide business interests in the city.

McHose, a seasoned newspaper man, having been editor and publisher of the Arthur Graphic-Clarion in Arthur, Illinois, for seven years before returning to Pittsfield. He is a native of Griggsville and before his service in the Navy was employed as linotype operator on Pike county newspapers.

THE LONG BODY

by Helen McCloy

XXXV

HAZARD agreed to talk to Cristina, the narrative stated. Basil Willing read on: "I found her a curious mixture of the malignant and the mercenary. Though she believes one of us killed her father, she will do nothing to us if we give her as much money as she wants.

"We have already offered Cristina a considerable sum but she wants a great deal more than we can afford to give her and she is insatiable. I have a feeling that no matter what we give her she will come back for more and still accuse us of murder in the end because she hates us so fanatically.

"I have arranged to meet her on the cliff walk this evening for another talk. I see only one thing to do now—tell her the true story as simply and fairly as I can. She must know the truth. She must know that she cannot blackmail us since it was not we but her own mother who shot her father with Byrd's gun.

"I hate to think how such a violently emotional nature will react to the truth, but I see no other way to keep her from making public accusations against both of us. She must learn what our side of the story will be if she ever brings her accusations into court. She must learn that she has no real ground for accusing us of murder no matter what the circumstantial evidence may be. Perhaps she will be more reasonable than I anticipate. She must know that her mother was capable of such an act.

"It's time I went to my rendezvous with her.

"John Hazard"

• • •

BASIL himself was aware of failing light as he read the last page. The house was still. The ambulance had taken Professor Lash and the nurse. The police sergeant was gone.

He sat still a moment longer, staring at the signature, scrawled hastily and blotted a little—the last signature of John Hazard. Now he was visualizing the "long body" of that distinguished statesman, quite different in depth from the shallow facade the world knew.

Basil was roused by a light, quick step.

He lifted his eyes and saw a tall, slim, debonair figure lounging in the doorway.

"You're Byrd Cushing?"

"Yes. And you're Dr. Willing." The deep, soft voice was almost a drawl. "Sergeant Keating told me about you." A spark fired the dark glance as it took in the green envelope. Byrd had never lost his quickness. "You know now who killed Cristina Lash," he said. "But you don't know why."

"I believe I do," answered Basil quietly. "Would you like me to tell you?"

Byrd Cushing nodded.

"You would never have made the mistake John Hazard made," said Basil. "You're far too impulsive and warm-hearted yourself to have told anyone as hot-blooded as Cristina Lash that her mother shot her father. Only a cool, logical, lawyer-mind could do a thing like that. Of course she thought he was lying. Of course she attacked him in an explosion of pent-up fury. That is how he fell over the cliff and was killed.

"But before he died, he must have told her that he had left a written account of the true story in his desk. She had to get that written document after he died. It was the only evidence you could use to defend yourself against her charge of murder and it must not fall into your hands. Once she had it she would be in a perfect position to blackmail you. It was she who stole it from John's desk after his death. The fact that her heady perfume clung to the green envelope showed that her contact with it had been recent. She left the envelope with the string re-tied to make you think nothing had been tampered with for she didn't know you had never seen it. She went back and got the envelope as soon as she had read the document and discovered that the envelope itself was evidence that might lead anyone who found it back to her. It was Mexican paper, foreign-looking, and there was a penciled inscription in John's writing with a reference to 'Miss Lash' that Cristina had missed.

"CRISTINA did not destroy John's document because she thought she could get more money from you by offering to sell it to you. She would let you read a photostatic copy, so you could realize just how vital John's story was to your defense. Then she would offer to sell you the original if you paid her whatever sum she demanded. But she never had time to get that photostat made. Events moved too fast for her.

"You didn't know, but you suspected that Cristina had killed John. When Alice told you about the empty green envelope and its 'Miss Lash' inscription, you did everything you could to put her off the right track, letting her think it might have some political significance and offering several times to investigate the matter for her. When Cristina let you know that she had John's document, you searched Cristina's house for it. Yours was the light, quick step Alice heard descending the stairs the night Cristina was so frightened. Naturally Cristina was frightened. She suspected you had come there to steal the document from her and she had every reason to be afraid of you for she believed you capable of murder. She believed you had killed her father."

SUCCEEDS McKAY? — Undersecretary of the Interior Clarence A. Davis, above, appears the likeliest choice to succeed former Secretary Douglas McKay. McKay resigned in April to run for the Senate in Oregon. Davis, 61-year-old Lincoln, Neb., lawyer, has been serving as acting secretary since then.
